BARES ESCAPE PLOT TO FREE DILLINGER AID

Ohio Pen Warden Says Seven Convicts Planned to Kidnap Him, Release Gangster.

SERVING LIFE TERM

Clark, Sentenced for Slaying of Lima Sheriff, Involved in 'Hair-Brained' Scheme.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — A Cleveland robber was named today as the "brains" of a thwarted Ohio penitentiary escape plot which was designed to free one of the surviving leaders of the Dillinger gang.

Warden Frank Henderson said that Frank Benszowski, 33, of Cleveland, engineered a "fantastic" escape plan, which involved kidnaping the warden, in an effort to free Russell Clark, 41, and two other life termers last week.

Clark is serving a life sentence for the slaying of Sheriff Jess Sarber of Allen county. Sarber was shot to death when John Dillinger's henchmen liberated him from the county jail. Clark was granted mercy on a murder conviction, but his two accomplices, Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, were sentenced to death.

Benszowski's plan, Henderson said, included the use of wooden pistols such as the ones Makley and Pierpont fashioned in a daring effort to escape from death row shortly before their scheduled execution in 1934. Makley was killed in the attempt. Pierpont survived his wounds, but was later electrocuted.

Others Involved.

Accused with Benszowski as the originators of what Henderson termed a "hare-brained" freedom plot were Cecil Martin, 23, of Pickaway county, John Gleeton, 38, of Cincinnati, and Walter Szafranski, 25, of Cleveland.

Szafranski is serving life for second degree murder, Martin 10-25 years for robbery and Gleeton, 2-40 for auto theft.

They were to have overpowered Henderson and other prison officials at a classification board hearing either March 5 or 7 and forced them to free Clark, Vernon Taylor, 35, of Union county, and Leroy Keith, 26, of Warren, from "L block." This is the cell-block for incorrigible prisoners.

Taylor is serving life for bank robbery and Keith for second degree murder.

After getting free, the seven men were to have scaled the 32-foot west wall and fled in an auto which was supposed to have been waiting outside.

Henderson had been "tipped" concerning the escape plans and lodged the leaders in solitary cells before they could execute the plot.

JUDGE DAY RUNS AS INDEPENDENT

Supreme Court Justice Won't Be In Republican Primary.

COLUMBUS — (NS) — Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day, of Cleveland, will not be a candidate in the May 14 Republican primary but will seek to have his name placed on the November non-partisan judicial ballot by filing petitions in September, he announced today.

"As I complete the sixth year of a full term as judge of the supreme court," he declared, "I announce as a candidate to succeed myself, for the January 2nd term, through the filing of a nominating petition in September, according to law, since judicial positions are determined on the separate non-partisan ballot in the November general election.

"This confines my candidacy to one campaign."

Holds War Won't Kill Democracy

Minister Sees Hope for U. S. Future as P. T. A. Conference Closes.

(Pictures on Page 9)

No matter how long the present war in Europe may last, democracy will survive, Rev. Neil Crawford, Athens minister and lecturer, told an audience of more than 400 last night at the Johnny Appleseed junior high school auditorium as the all-day conference of the Northcentral district of Parent-Teachers associations came to a close.

Attendance at the conference was considerably under the expected number yesterday because of the unusual weather conditions. With 12 counties in the district, only seven were represented—Crawford, Marion, Huron, Sandusky, Lorain, Ashland and Richland.

About 275 attended the annual banquet in the Johnny Appleseed cafeteria in the evening. Preceding this was a tea for visitors who were taken on a tour of the new school building.

Rev. Crawford spoke on "Educating For Democracy." He said there was more idealism in the youth of today than ten years ago, and this in itself is a signpost of hope for the future of America.

Based On Religion.

One of the important things for Americans to remember, he said was that democracy is based on the fundamentals of the Christian religion, and that you can't have one without the other.

"There is a place," he pointed out, "where politics and theology meet. The 'certain inalienable rights' which are specifically named in the preamble to the constitution, man got from his creator.

"Of prime importance in safeguarding these 'inalienable rights,' is the right to free speech for if 'we maintain the right to free speech, we set up a certain safeguard of democracy.'"

When the war is over, he said, no matter how great its toll, there will be five indestructible factors left: the soil of the good earth itself; the scientific knowledge of men, the indomitable will of man, man's love for his fellow beings; and man's God-given spirit of resourcefulness.

The afternoon session was divided into sectional conferences, the results of which were reported on at the panel discussions. Leaders in the panels and their conclusions were:

Health and Summer Round-Up, Mrs. Francis Hurst, Marion—The child's health should be considered from both the mental and physical standpoint. She stressed the impor-

STILL AT 'WAR'

Governor Orders Troops to Grand River Dam Site.

DISNEY, Okla.—(AP)—National guardsmen patrolled the Grand River dam today as Gov. Leon C. Phillips refused to give ground in his "state's right war" against the Public Works Administration.

Work on the $20,000,000 hydro-electric project continued, however, under the watchful eyes of three national guard officers who were ordered to call a halt—by force if necessary—when construction reaches the point that lands could be flooded.

Seventy more guardsmen were mobilized at the Wagoner armory, 60 miles from the damsite.

Calling out the guard late yesterday, Phillips delivered a scathing attack against the PWA, from which he seeks $850,000 for roads and bridges which would be inundated.

Play Stirs Up Discussion Over Auditorium Acoustics

Complaints of Not Being Able to Hear Actors Follow Opening of Simpson Hall By Community Troupe.

By KEN WOODMAN

First use of the new John Simpson junior high school auditorium last night for a public meeting today had evoked a controversy over the acoustics of the hall.

A number of persons in the audience at the Community Players' presentation of "The Petrified Forest" said they were unable to hear the speakers' lines during the first act of the play, and Mrs. Helen Bacon, director of the production, said she was "greatly disappointed" over the voice-carrying qualities of the auditorium.

Board of education members and architects for the building said if the audience was unable to hear some of the players it was because they were not speaking loudly and distinctly enough.

"I heard well enough from down close to the front of the room and the other night during a rehearsal I could easily hear ordinary conversation on the stage when I was standing at the back of the room," H. W. Arlin, president of the board, said today.

"I intend to question other board members and persons who were at the play last night to determine what the reaction was." Arlin said, "but I'm sure that at least

On stage at the handsome new John Simpson Junior high school auditorium last night, Mansfield's Community Players got hold of their bootstraps in the second act of Robert Sherwood's drama "The Petrified Forest" and pulled themselves out of a performance that was well on the way to becoming a failure.

They did it principally by making at least a major portion of their lines audible — something that could not be said for the first half of the play.

Director Helen Bacon declared today "I was deeply disappointed with the acoustics of the auditorium. Nearly all of the cast was shouting."

Whatever the cause, the actors just couldn't be heard during the early stages of the play and groupings were not such as to give heightened clarity to the action.

However, with the stepping up of the pace of the show in the final act not only did the performance become more clear-cut but some good portrayals were turned in.

Ruhland Isaly in the role of Duke Mantee, a killer-bandit, was thoroughly convincing, handling with finesse a part that could easily have been over or underplayed at any turn of the lines.

Ben Goodenough, as the intellectual Alan Squier—the character done in the motion picture version of the play by Leslie Howard—showed a keen perception of the individuality about which the drama built itself and carried himself with a customary ease.

In a brief statement Ashbrook said: "My chief interest in the special election was to complete the unexpired term of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook. When I became a candidate in the special election, I had no idea of running in the regular election."

He had indicated following his defeat Feb. 27 that he might run again in the May 14 primary. Announcement of his decision not to run followed a recent conference with 17th district Democratic leaders here.

Hospital Wards Quarantined, 2 Scarlet Fever Cases Found

A quarantine restricting the visiting of 35 patients in the main floor wards at General hospital was in effect today.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said the wards were placed under quarantine following the discovery yesterday of two cases of scarlet fever among the patients.

Those ill with the disease were identified by hospital authorities as Luther Hiner, 9, of Perrysville, and James Brown, 38, of 91 McPherson street. Both were removed to their homes and put under quarantine.

Dr. Rehder said that as a "precautionary measure" no visitors will be allowed in the first floor until a thorough check of the patients had been made by hospital attendants.

It is expected that the visiting ban will remain in effect at least a week.

During the duration of the quarantine, no admissions will be made to these wards, hospital authorities said. New patients will be placed in other parts of the institution until the quarantine is lifted.

CLAIM $4,000 DUE WORKERS ON 2 SCHOOLS

PWA Inspectors Refuse to OK Buildings, Charge 120 Paid Only 40 Cents an Hour.

BOARD TO AIR DISPUTE

Meets Tonight on Problem; $100,000 in Federal Funds Still Due.

Faced with the possibility of having to pay nearly $4,000 more to workmen on the city's two new junior high schools than was called for in the project specifications, the Mansfield board of education at a special session at 7:30 p. m. today will attempt to settle a dispute over the classification of workers on the PWA projects.

The dispute arose yesterday after federal PWA inspectors refused to approve the new schools, contending that about 120 workers had been paid only 40 cents an hour when they should have been paid 50 cents.

The inspectors said the department of labor ruled last December that there was no common labor classification on PWA construction jobs and all workers must be paid under the scale for construction laborers.

Can Hold Up Allocation.

Unless the contractors for the buildings or the board of education make up the pay difference to meet the federal requirements, PWA officials can hold up the final allocation of nearly $100,000 due the board of education for construction of the schools.

Aroused by the inspectors' action, H. W. Arlin, president of the board of education, said: "It was the PWA supervisor's job to see that the contractors carried out the federal specifications. Now that the buildings are completed, this is no time to raise a dispute about how much the workers were paid."

Architects and contractors on the new Johnny Appleseed and John Simpson buildings have been asked to meet tonight with the board of education. The session will be held at the John Simpson building.

Mansfielders Hustle to File Income Tax Returns.

The eve of the March 15 deadline found Mansfielders hastening to file their 1939 income tax returns, and there were lines of persons waiting at the office of the internal revenue department in the postoffice building yesterday and today.

The deadline for filing is midnight tomorrow and the office here will be open until 9 p. m.

There was a decided increase in the number of persons filing this year due to the fact that state and municipal employes were included for the first time this year in the income tax paying brackets.

Records are not kept in deputy offices, but the Cleveland district office, of which Mansfield is a part, reported that 114,222 returns had been filed to date, an increase of 33,183 over last year.

URBANA—(AP)—Mrs. Iza Sultzbaugh, 52, of Springfield, was injured fatally and six others were hurt, one critically, in an automobile accident early today two miles north of here.

Winter Back Again, Blankets City With 3 Inches of Snow

Mansfield was turned into a veritable fairyland this morning as winter paid a return visit, covering the area with a three-inch snow blanket along with much of the state.

With the mercury hovering below freezing, more snow and colder weather was predicted.

The weatherman forecast snow flurries and a drop in temperature tonight with Friday "generally fair and continued cold."

An ice coat underneath the snow hampered traffic and interrupted bus schedules. The highway patrol reported driving conditions outside the city "hazardous" and warned motorists to drive with caution.

"Scenically, the best of the year," the Cincinnati weather bureau said in describing the Ohio valley's 3.2-inch fall. It piled up on even the smallest branches to make a fairyland.

Lake Erie shores presented similar scenes under three inches of velvety snow. Toledo reported streets and roads in that area pretty well cleared. Columbus sloshed in heavy slush.

Bus and airlines reported services running near schedule.

Informs Finns She's Ready to Negotiate Pact

Norway Make Identical Announcement As Smaller Nations Speculate On Russia's Next Move; 'Danger Not Over' Swedish Minister Says.

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM—The Swedish foreign office announced today that the Swedish government, in reply to a question from the Finnish government, had declared itself ready and willing to "discuss the possibility of a defensive alliance."

Norway's foreign minister, Halvdan Koht, made a virtually identical announcement soon after President Kyosti Kallio of Finland in a broadcast from Helsinki said the need for such an alliance was apparent.

The three northern nations, moving for joint defense discussions, apparently were spurred by Russia's terms exacting vital territorial concessions from Finland as the price for ending the Finnish-Russian war.

Sweden and Norway found cause for concern in the rail and air right-of-way Russia won across Finnish territory to the Swedish and Norwegian frontiers.

Sweden, taking stock of changes in Scandinavia's strategic position as a result of Soviet Russia's inroads on Finland, now is prepared for an "unbiased examination" of the situation lest Finland become another Czechoslovakia.

Apparently she favors some sort of defensive alliance of the north countries to insure that the Russians will not follow up the Moscow settlement with a march to Helsinki as the Germans followed Munich with a march to Prague.

There remained, of course, the possibility that Germany herself might stand in the way of any such Russian move.

Last night Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Gunther told a special gathering of parliament that the "danger is not over" and that "as a result of Finland's altered frontiers our own position has become worse, viewed generally, than it was before the Russian-Finnish conflict."

Gunther pointed to provisions in the peace of Moscow advancing the Russian frontier toward Sweden in the Salla area and providing for construction of a railway through that zone to link the Russian Murmansk railway with a Finnish line connecting with Swedish Haparanda at the head of the Gulf of Bothnia.

These, he said, are "conditions that are of evident interest to us."

Gunther said that Sweden's role

23 KILLED IN TEXAS CRASH

17 Other Fruit Pickers Hurt as Passenger Train Strikes Truck at Crossing.

(By Associated Press)

McALLEN, Tex.—Twenty-three fruit pickers, mostly of Mexican extraction, were killed today in their orchard-bound truck which was struck squarely in the center of a grade crossing by a Missouri-Pacific passenger train. Seventeen other pickers were injured.

It was the most disastrous wreck in Texas history.

The train crashed into the truck at 8:06 a. m. at a crossing six miles east of this lower Rio Grande valley town. It carried the vehicle on its cowcatcher for about 600 yards. Bodies were scattered along the tracks.

Identification of the victims, all passengers in the truck, was slow. Most of them were laborers living in the farm areas around Alamo, Tex.

The truck burst into flames under the impact of the crash. One victim was found charred when the train had stopped.

Homer Garrison, state police director, said "the McAllen crossing wreck apparently is the worst of its kind in Texas history. Our records go back only to 1935 when the public safety department was created but no one here can recall a crossing accident in which more lives were lost."

One of the worst previous crashes occurred Jan. 22, 1927, in which 10 Baylor university students were killed and 12 injured in a crossing accident at Round Rock, Tex.

CLAIMS HITLER SET TO STRIKE

British Journalist Says Germany Will Attack on All Fronts.

CLEVELAND — (NS) — Great Britain is in imminent danger of attack by Germany, S. K. Ratcliffe of London, noted journalist and lecturer, predicted today.

Speaking at the forum of the Church of the Covenant, Ratcliffe said:

"I cannot help but foresee that Hitler will attack on all fronts, with no regard for neutral neighbors. He believes 1940 to be the lucky year for the third reich, and when he strikes, he will strike like lightning."

MOST DEADLY?

Senate Hears of Explosive, Then Burns Up Records.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The inventor of "the most deadly" explosive sought permission today to demonstrate its force by blowing up animals with it.

"It won't hurt them," he said, "since it causes instantaneous death."

Lester P. Barlow, of Stamford, Conn., so impressed the senate military affairs committee yesterday with a description of his new explosive that the committee burned the minutes of the two-hour session lest a foreign power learn the formula.

The committee will discuss Barlow's invention with war and navy department officials Monday.

Barlow said he was asking to demonstrate the explosive by exploding mines of it in a field of animals. It was assumed that he had asked the committee for permission to so demonstrate and that the committee would discuss it with military authorities.

Three of the unusual things she discussed was the surprisingly enormous funds being sent from the United States to Europe for relief, the discovery that the use of snake venom as a pain killer is an ancient Chinese discovery, and that anything from rayon to vanilla can now be made from trees.

The paper of the afternoon, "Epitaphs," was presented humorously and entertainingly by Mrs. Wallace Campbell. She gave the history of inscriptions, and quoted from Shakespeare and Byron. In conclusion she read from "Granite Laughter and Marble Tears," a volume of epitaphs.

WARNS 130,000 FARMERS ABOUT POLITICAL ACTS

Agriculture Department Says Activity May Cost Them Their Jobs In AAA.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The agriculture department has notified its 130,000 farmer members of local AAA committees—many of whom are party leaders—that they must not take active part in forthcoming presidential, state, congressional and local campaigns.

The farmer committeemen are subject to the Hatch act designed to prevent "pernicious" political activity on the part of federal employes.

Aides of Secretary Wallace, who has endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term, said a ruling by the department's solicitor, Mastin G. White, holding the AAA committeemen liable under the Hatch law, was "significant."

Approximately 70,000 other employes of the department, both also have been instructed to stay in Washington and in the field, out of active politics.

They said "thousands" of the committeemen were local party leaders. Many were said to be members of party committees.

The administration has counted these farmers as the backbone of the rural support for the Wallace crop control programs. However, under the department's ruling, they apparently would not be in a position to comply with a recent Wallace plea that "friends" of the farm programs work for the election of congressmen who likewise were friendly.

"In general," said a memorandum sent jobholders, "Such employes (AAA committeemen) must not solicit political contributions from other agricultural conservation employes, employes of the agricultural adjustment administration, or other government employes, or persons drawing federal emergency relief benefits."

The memorandum added, "However, that such employes were free to make voluntary political contributions."

Violators of these regulations, the document said, would be subject to automatic discharge.

MODEL PLANE COURSE TRIED

New Jersey Favors Plan of Boys' Aviation Training.

NEWARK, N. J. — (U.P.) — The state of New Jersey is organizing its own government aviation training course — for model airplane builders.

A survey is under way for the purpose of giving instruction and aid in model craft building in children's hospitals, orphanages and juvenile correction centers. Fourteen experimental instruction units were established last year and have been deemed such a success that the state will open units all over the state.

Roosevelt Indicates Uneasiness Over Finn's Future

'EMBARGOES' AGAINST REDS WILL REMAIN

U. S. Officials Not Certain Russia Won't Again Move at Weakened Finland.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — With President Roosevelt indicating uneasiness over Finland's future, the United States will continued to regard Russia warily for some time.

This became apparent today when it was learned from a reliable source that the "moral embargoes" against Russia, imposed by Mr. Roosevelt and the state department after the Soviet invasion of Finland, would be maintained indefinitely regardless of the Baltic peace.

The president laid down the "moral embargo" on the shipment of airplanes and parts to Russia early in December. This was later amplified by the state department to include materials going into the manufacture of airplanes.

No move to lift any of these embargoes will be made for some time, it was learned, because:

1. Officials are not sure that Russia will not again move against a Finland weakened by the peace treaty, as Germany did against Czechoslovakia weakened by the detachment of the Sudeteniand.

2. Nor are they sure that Russia, now that her hands are freed by the peace treaty with Finland, will not move against other nations.

3. Nor are they sure that materials sent to Russia are not going on through to Germany.

President Roosevelt's concern over the Finnish situation was expressed in a statement issued by the White House late yesterday. He said:

"The ending of this war does not yet clarify the inherent right of small nations to the maintenance of their integrity against attack by superior force.

"The people of Finland, by their unexcelled valor and strong resistance in the face of overwhelming armed forces, have won the moral right to live in everlasting peace and independence in the land they have so bravely defended."

Girl-Mother Held, Abandoned Child at Relief Office

A 17-year-old colored girl was held in jail today while juvenile authorities conducted an investigation concerning a charge of child abandonment placed against her yesterday by Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer.

The young mother was identified as Beatrice Pinner, 15 Marrell court. Police said she was on parole from the girl's industrial school at Delaware.

She was arrested yesterday afternoon at her home after she had abandoned her two-year-old daughter at the relief headquarters on Orange street.

Relief Director J. Verne Finney called officers when the girl-mother left the child in the office and disappeared. He said she left following a dispute over payment of her room rent which relief officials refused to grant.

MAGICIAN TRIES TO CONTACT GREAT BEYOND, FAILS AGAIN

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Claude Noble, a magician, stood on a bleak bridge in Jackson park, held out a hymn book, and called upon the spirit of Clarence Darrow to manifest itself if it could.

Hopefully, he stood in silence for a full minute. A bird squeaked in a naked tree and outside the park the hum of the city's traffic rose and fell. Then he turned to the newspapermen and said: "No manifestation."

It's been the same story for more than 75 years.

Noble, who came from his home in Detroit to conduct the experiment yesterday, said magicians had been trying to get a glimpse into the great beyond since the days of Conte.

Herman the Great tried, and then Harry Keller, Houdini and Howard Thurston. Now it's Noble's turn, and when he's dead, he said, Blackstone would carry on, or Dante, in Europe.

There are always arrangements made beforehand. In the case of Darrow, the great criminal lawyer and agnostic, they were agreed upon a meeting in a Detroit hotel three years ago.

Just a year ago yesterday, on the first anniversary of Darrow's death, Noble conducted his experiment in the hotel room where the pact was made. This year he chose the bridge over the lagoon into which Darrow's ashes were strewn.

Darrow had promised to try to agitate the book so that it would fall from Noble's hand. The magician trembled, but nothing stirred the book, not even the wind.

Aero Unit Hears of Drive to Boost Private Aviation

J. B. Hartranft, Chicago, associate editor of Popular Aviation magazine, discussed the campaign under way to promote private aviation in the United States in a talk to members of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association here last night.

Forced down by ice at Fort Wayne, Hartranft, who is executive secretary of the Airplane Owners' and Pilots association, completed his trip to Mansfield yesterday by train.

He told the 65 pilots and enthusiasts who gathered at the Swartz tavern on U. S. route 42, that the association was sponsoring cross-country tours and that it's legal staff was constantly on guard against passage of any legislation that would be detrimental to private aviation.

He added that private flyers were being counseled in their problems and that cooperation was given towards airport improvements.

Twenty students, participating the Civil Aeronautics Authority's civilian pilot training program in Mansfield were guests of the aero chapter at dinner.

MOVES TO PUT ASHLAND FEUD UP TO VOTERS

Fire Chief, Stripped of Pay, Authority Under New Law, Seeks Referendum.

ASHLAND — The feud in city council over an ordinance concerning the fire department came to a showdown today when Fire Chief Charles L. Clark began circulating a referendum petition which needs 460 signatures to place it before the voters.

The "feud" got under way soon after Mayor Howard Lutz took office Jan. 1 and recommended that the salary of the part-time fire chief be abolished and a full-time fire captain be named to have complete charge of the city's fire department.

Legislation to this effect was passed by city council on Feb. 19 with two councilmen, Chester Walz and Jack Lentz, opposing the bill. Immediately after the measure was passed, Walz and Lentz launched a drive to have it recalled.

Twice city council refused to vote out the new ruling and at a recent session the two solons said that in retaliation they would "block every piece of emergency legislation in the next two years."

Only Drivers Paid.

Members of the Ashland fire department are not paid as it is done under volunteer system with the exception of the drivers. Fire Chief Clark, who is also custodian of the Chamber of Commerce rooms, is paid $410 a year for his part-time services in the fire deparmtent.

The new ordinance goes into effect Monday and abolishes the chief's salary, setting up a position of fire captain who would be paid $1,800 a year, and who would have entire charge of the department, all of the equipment and would train the personnel. The position would be under civil service, with one of the present drivers certified after competitive examinations had been held.

Clark has waged a battle, aided by the two councilmen, to have the bill recinded. If he is successful in securing the 460 names, two courses will be open to council: to kill the new regulation or to submit the issue to the voters at a special or a regular city election.

JURY PROBING 18 FLOGGINGS

Nightriders Blamed for Death of One, Torture of Others in Georgia Section.

(By United Press)

ATLANTA, Ga.—A county grand jury today considered evidence indicating that at least 18 persons have been flogged by nightriders causing at least one death and creating a reign of terror in this section of the deep south.

Bills of indictments were expected to result from a mass of evidence pertaining to the activity of secret bands roaming through Atlanta suburbs, intent on supervising the morals of the community.

The evidence was drawn from an inquest in the death of Ike Gaston, husky barber whose leather-lashed body was found in the South Fulton county woods over the week-end.

The inquest finding was "death at the hands of three or more persons yet to be identified." But the more than a score of witnesses told of 17 similar flogging cases and two Fulton county deputies—also Ku Klux Klansmen—were accused face-to-face of taking part in the abductions.

Testimony was repleted with references to the Klan as the witnesses, many of them flog victims themselves, told of whippings which the nightriders administered for drunkenness, wife beating, immorality and gossiping.

Old Fight Favorite, Honeyboy Jones, Sees Settlement Boys Win

Here's "Honeyboy" Jones, a former Mansfielder, who is one of the better middleweights of the professional game, with Paul Carbetta, 115, after the latter had scored a technical knockout over Carl Netzel, 115, of Cleveland, in one minute and six seconds of the first round. Jones was Carbetta's second during the brief fight. Jones returned to the city this week for a visit.

Beauford Glover, Mansfield lightweight, is shown ducking a right cross that Mat Yannie of Cleveland is attempting to send home. Glover had a real battle on his hands, but won the decision over the clever Yannie. The crowd booed the verdict.

The News-Journal photographer caught Jake Zacharias, 160, Mansfield, as he landed a left on Bert Smith, 160, Cleveland. Smith failed to hold up under Zacharias' potent attack and was counted out after 25 seconds of fighting in the second round.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

ON WEDNESDAY, April 3, less than three weeks from today, Dewey Stover will launch baseball classes at Blue Goose field.

A week later, the Braves' pilot should have a pretty good idea of what the school will produce in the way of prospects, and he will welcome the batterymen under contract on Wednesday.

The outfielders and infielders will increase the population at the camp on the following Wednesday, April 17, and two weeks after they report the Braves will inaugurate their 1940 Ohio State league schedule with Lima at the Fairground.

This, in a nut-shell, is the schedule of important dates that should interest the Mansfield baseball public.

This is every indication that the school will bring a young army of ambitious sandlot stars to the city for tryouts. So far the response to the invitation extended earlier this year to young ball players has exceeded even the wildest expectations.

President Joe C. Hartline and his associates appear confident that the training school will produce talent that Stover will be able to use to advantage during the coming season.

The discovery of only one or two players that Stover could fit into his ball club would make the school a success, and provide the encouragement to continue in following years.

Promising Players To Get Contracts.

THE SCHOOL is open to all players desiring chances to strut their wares, and those showing the most promise will join the Braves when they report.

Players will be requested to furnish their own equipment, Hartline informs us.

Picking the grain from the chaff in the rookie school will be a job, but Manager Dewey's task will be no tougher when the pitchers and catchers arrive April 10.

Hartline has signed his quota of veterans and optinees, and it looks like it will be a free-for-all fight for the few jobs on the team.

None of the hurlers returning from last year has his place cinched. The experience the so-called vets obtained last year will be to their advantage in the fight, however.

Stover's job will not be lightened when the infielders and outfielders report the following week.

Virtually all of the infielders except Steve Gromek will return, but they, too, will have to hustle to trin berths, judging from the reputations that have preceded some of the candidates to the city.

Outfield Weakest Department of Club.

IT IS needless to say that the outfield stacks up as one of the weakest departments of the club today. The loss of Hank Edwards and his bat leaves a big hole in the garden, and it is likely that Stover will be satisfied if he can find a replacement only half as good as the Norwalk nugget nudger.

Stover appears to be the only outfielder definitely slated for duty next season, but he has been impressed with the reports on some of the candidates to be sent to the city by Cleveland Indian farms.

Automen Drop 2 Games to Long Bar Despite Big Series in City Loop.

A 2838 total by the Ingram & Martin Oldsmobiles won the scoring honors in the City Class A league at the Meder alleys last night.

Compiling scores of 936, 956 and 946, the Oldsmobiles, however, won only one game from the Long Bar keglers, who hit 2800 right on the nose. L. Wolf led the Automen with a 626 and Gene Funston was high for the Long Bar with 618.

The Mansfielders fashioned a 2782 total as they registered two wins at the expense of the Greystone Nite club, and the Lutz Lumbers of Lexington swept their series with Weidner's Pontiacs.

Dairys Need Win To Cinch Title

Already assured of a tie for the second round championship of the Senior A league, the Isaly Dairys will attempt to gain a clear-cut claim to the crown at the Friendly House tonight when they face the Rex Billiards in the first game at 6:45.

A victory for the Billiards and Raemelton Farms, first half champions, would throw the race into a three-way tie. The games tonight end the season.

Daley's Cafes meet Augustine's Canfields in the middle game and the Farmers tackle the Moose lodge in the finale.

Rollie Hemsley's new left-handed batting stance let him down in the intra-squad games. Johnny Allen arrived in camp and worked out with those who did not go to Fort Lauderdale for today's exhibition game with Syracuse.

Marvel Ok'd For Next Card

Suspended Grappler to Face Marino Monday.

The Masked Marvel, who recently walked out of the ring here and refused to continue a match with the New York City Italian, "Bull" Marino, is a chastened individual.

He was set down for a month by the Midwest Wrestling Association and informed he could never wrestle again in MWA territory until he met Marino.

Tim Nolan, matchmaker for the Quality club announced today that he has signed that match to headline Monday night's mat card in the Armory.

Nolan contacted the Marvel early this week with an offer to meet Marino here Monday and offered to intercede for him with the MWA if he would agree to the match.

The Marvel accepted and Nolan announced today that Col. Heywood Allen, sr., of Louisville, head of the MWA had agreed to lift the suspension of the Marvel in time to allow him to wrestle here Monday. The original suspension is up next Tuesday.

Mayflower, Presby Clubs Win Titles

Defeat Park Avenue Baptist, First Congregational In Championship Playoffs at Y.

MAYFLOWER and First Presbyterians are the cage kings of the Y. M. C. A. Church leagues.

Staging a last-period rally, the Mayflower quintet edged the Park Avenue Baptist five, 20 to 19, to win the Class A crown, while First Presbyterian walloped First Congregational, 35 to 28, to annex the Class B championship in playoff games at the Y last night.

Behind by a 17 to 16 count going into the final session, Mayflower limited the Baptist club to a goal and tallied four points itself to emerge with the title.

The Class A champions fought an uphill battle all the way. Baptist gave Mayflower a scare in the first quarter by holding the club scoreless. The Mayflower cagers came back to knot the score at 6-all at the intermission, only to fall a point behind in the third heat.

Russel led the 1940 kings with nine points, while Rush topped the losers with seven tallies. The ten players who saw service on the two clubs scored at least one point.

The Presbyterian outfit didn't encounter much trouble from the First Congregational club. The winners jumped into a commanding lead in the initial stanza and never trailed.

First Presbyterian led, 12 to 3, in the opening chapter, 17 to 11 at the half, and 23 to 19 at the three-quarter mark. Templeton slipped in 11 points to gain high scoring honors for the evening. Weaver was high for the Congregational five with 10 markers.

INVESTIGATE AMATEUR STATUS OF U. S. RUNNERS

WASHINGTON — (INS)—Finnish legation officials today expressed apprehension that Taisto Maki, Finnish long distance world's champion runner, might jeopardize his amateur status if he runs against Gregory Rice, American champion, and Don Lash at Madison Square Garden March 29.

It was pointed out to the officials that Rice and Lash enjoyed unquestionable amateur status, but they still seemed to be dubious. They alleged that Paavo Nurmi lost his amateur status competing in the United States, and said they were studying the Rice-Lash situation.

FRIENDLY HOUSE BOXERS SWEEP AMATEUR MATCHES

Matt Yannie, a leading Cleveland simon-pure, enabled the settlement stable to score a clean sweep in four matches with the Cleveland team.

Three of those settlement mittsters did their work in impressive fashion.

Paul Carbetta, 115, Jake Zacharias, 160, and Al Sauer, 160, were the ones to register triumphs vie the knockout route. Joe Carbetta, making his debut, won a decision to keep the slate clean.

Yannie, a clever boxer, replaced Tony Brush as Glover's opponent and before the bell ended the fifth round the Mansfield lad knew he had been through a tough session.

When Referee John Eichinger raised Glover's hand in token of victory he was greeted by loud boos. But more of that later.

Zacharias, Sauer and Carbetta didn't have a bit of trouble. None of the Cleveland boys who climbed into the ring with them offered any opposition.

Bert Smith tackled Zacharias and the latter turned loose a two-fisted attack that had the Lake City boy on his heels from the opening bell. Smith lasted the first round, but ran into a left hook and right cross early in the second heat and Eichinger counted him out after 25 seconds.

Netzel was supposed to be a seasoned ringster. Paul Carbetta began sending home devastating punches at the bell and Netzel's seconds tossed in the towel after a minute and six seconds. Carbetta had his rival completely outclassed and never took a hard blow.

Sauer gave the crowd a thrill with his rugged attack against Ted Earan, 160, of Cleveland. Earan, however, couldn't stand the body and head punishment and Sauer won on a technical knockout in one minute and 56 seconds of the first. Earan had one of his teeth missing when he returned to the showers.

Ted Hertch, 135, Cleveland, gave Ray Howman a boxing lesson in another three-round setto. Hertch lost the first heat because of a low blow, and took the second and third by a wide margin. Howman was hanging on gamely at the end.

Joe Carbetta, a flyweight trying to follow in the steps of his brother, Paul, looked good in his opening match against Bud Askey, 112, of Ashland. Carbetta floored his rival twice in the first round. He lacked the experience to land a knockout blow.

To get back to the Glover-Yannie tussle.

Yannie, who reached the semi-finals of the welterweight class of the open division in the Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament, was a worthy opponent for Glover.

A crack boxer, Yannie, after finding a way to stop some of Glover's dynamite punches, gave the Mansfield boy a battle.

Glover opened up a rousing attack in the final heat and had Yannie against the ropes. It was the only time he was able to do any real damage.

The Mansfielder piled up a margin in the first two rounds and he needed it to win. For Yannie began connecting with a damaging left jab in the third heat and he kept pumping it into Glover's face for two periods.

Glover looked more like himself in the fifth. He successfully stopped Yannie's left and started driving in. The Mansfield youth led the fight from the opening gong. His aggressiveness was an important factor.

Then when the judges, Paul Elliot, Joe Scanlon and Jess Willard voted Glover the winner some of the crowd failed to agree with them. According to the judges, Glover won the first, second and fifth.

Two more Carbetta boys furnished the entertainment in brief bouts before the show started. Cosmo and Orlando, at 99 and 82, pounds respectively, didn't win their fights but looked impressive. Cosmo met Lou Trenoff, 99, and Orlando faced Tony Christella, 90. Anoter two-round bout saw Joe Perry, 118, and Mike Sferro, 113, trading punches.

The crowd received a pleasant surprise when James Brownscomb, the announcer, introduced "Honeyboy" Jones, a Mansfielder, who has made a name for himself in pro circles. He acted as a second for Carbetta and Glover.

Pennant Fever Hits Sox Camp

Miller Graduates Brighten Boston Picture.

SARASOTA, Fla. — (U.P.) — Pennant fever has reached the proportions of an epidemic here among the palm trees where the Boston Red Sox believe that the hour has struck for them to topple the New York Yankees off the American league throne.

That is why this is a good time to introduce you to a couple of young men named Hash and Butland, for they are important cogs in the machine that Manager Joe Cronin is building for the long drive through the summer.

They are a pair of pitchers up from Minneapolis of the American association — Herbert H. Hash from Chancellor, Va., and Wilburn Butland from Terre Haute, Ind. Both are right-handers, both are big, strong kids and both are quietly confident that they can subdue big league hitters.

If they can, watch out for the Red Sox. The biggest gap between the champion Yankees and the second place Red Sox is on the pitching mound. Foxx, Doerr, Williams, Tabor, Cronin and Cramer are competent to stand up and slug it out with DiMaggio, Dickey, Keller, Rolfe, Selkirk and Gordon.

Both teams have fine defensive infields. But when you come to pitching the gap between them is wide, and Manager Cronin hopes that in Hash and Butland he has found the boys to close it.

BOZEMAN ROUTS RUBIN BY ONE-SIDED SCORE

CHICAGO—(AP)—Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Cal., cue star who had the experts digging up record books yesterday after his 50-8 rout of New York's Art Rubin, will bid for his third straight victory tonight in the $20,000 world three cushion billiard tournament. The record books showed only one worse setback, the 50-3 thumping Johnny Layton dealt Jess Jacons in the 1931 event at Chicago.

BARONS MOVE NEARER TITLE PLAYOFF GAMES

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — The Cleveland Barons today were a little nearer the International-American league hockey playoffs today after they defeated the Pittsburgh Hornets 3 and 1 in a bitter struggle here last night. The victory puts the Barons in second place, one point ahead of Pittsburgh and Hershey, tied for third, but the Barons have two remaining games and the Hornets and Bears three each.

GRAPPLE FOR TITLE

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Frankie Talaber, Chicago, former light-heavy belt wearer, tonight will attempt to lift the junior-heavyweight wrestling mantle from the shoulders of Gil Knutsen, of Windsor, Canada.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Margaret Geist, who passed away 20 years ago today.

We cannot say, and we will not say
That she is dead, she is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land

And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since she lingers there.
And you — oh you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return.

Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of There, as the love of Here.
Think of her still as the same, I say.
She is not dead, she is just away.

THE CHILDREN.

STOCK TRENDS INDEFINITE IN QUIET MARKET

Confusion Over Russo-Finn Agreement Unsettles Wall Street.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Indefinite trends cluttered up the stock market today with both buyers and sellers apathetic.

Dealings, quiet at the start, settled down to a crawl and price changes generally were in small fractions.

Confusion over the Russian-Finnish agreement continued in Wall Street and many traders inclined to stand aside pending clarification of European developments.

Bonds were a trifle uneven. Recently strong Scandinavian dollar loans took a rest. Commodities were irregular. Foreign securities markets were fairly steady.

Market followers, searching for further signs of a comeback in industry, found some satisfaction in the summary of the Engineering News-Record indicating construction awards for the latest week amounted to $43,308,000 compared with $39,308,000 in the preceding week.

While awards recently have displayed declining year-to-year tendencies, analysts studied a survey of Dun & Bradstreet disclosing building permits filed in 215 cities in February topped January 6.9 per cent and were 11.2 per cent above the second month of 1939.

A favorable market straw was seen in reports from meetings of private economists with commerce department officials in which the consensus was that inventory accumulation has definitely decreased and was expected to continue dwindling over coming months.

THEATERS

The Marx Bros. are doing the preliminary work that will permit them to "meet the public" in person for the first time since the summer of 1936. They plan to make a try-out tour with the comedy highlights of their next picture, "Go West," this spring. Their tours with their first two pictures proved highly successful in establishing "sure-fire" routines.

George Eliot Classic.

The screen version of George Eliot's immortal classic, "The Mill on the Floss" will be shown Friday at the Madison theater. Since 1860 when it was published this great romance has been a popular and absorbing story. In this drama Geraldine Fitzgerald in the role of irrespressible Maggie Tulliver, and Frank Lawton as Philip Wakem, portray characters who are familiar to old and young alike. Victoria Hopper plays the role of pathetic Lucy Deane.

Robert Young in Front.

With his role of Langdon Towne in "Northwest Passage" having made him quite a talked of young man and the leading role in "Florian," soon to reach the screen, Robert Young has been signed to a new long term contract. Playing quite as fine a role as Spencer Tracy or Walter Brennan in "Northwest Passage" which is running through Friday at the Ohio theater, Young finally came to the front.

Tone and Sothern.

Making the return to the screen of Franchot Tone after a sojourn on the Broadway stage, "Fast and Furious," coming Friday to the Majestic theater affords the actor a new type of role. In this comedy mystery he plays the book expert-amateur detective husband of Ann Sothern and is given free rein to show his flair for comedy. The co-feature is Bob Steele in "The Pal From Texas."

Adventure Stories.

Beginning Friday at the Park theater will be "The 3 Mesquiteers" in "New Frontier," starring John Wayne, Ray Corrigan and Raymond Hatton, and "The Secret 4," and Edgar Wallace story, with Frank Lawton, Anna Lee and Griffith Jones in the leading roles. The picture unfolds the adventures of four men whose mission in life is to right the wrongs of the world.

Horses Are Stars.

Excitement reigns supreme at the Ritz for the films to be shown on Friday and Saturday are no less than "Days of Jesse James," with Roy Rogers in the lead, and "Pride of the Bluegrass" with Gantry, the famous blind horse, the star of a big race track sensation. Edith Fellows and James McCallion are in the cast. Three great horse races are seen in this picture. The classics are the Baltimore Stakes, the Kentucky Derby and the Grand National at Aintree, England, a famous steeplechase race.

ASHBROOK OUT OF RACE IN 17TH

Leaves Democratic Field to Lutz; 12 More File Here, 4 for Representative.

Harry McGregor, Coshocton county Republican, by about 4,500 votes in the special election last month.

Withdrawal of Ashbrook from the congressional race leaves only Ralph C. Lutz of Lexington, Richland county state representative, in the field for the Democratic nomination for congress. Others may file, however, before the deadline tomorrow night. Freer Bittinger of Ashland, former speaker of the Ohio house of representatives, is still considered a likely candidate on the Democratic ticket.

Congressman McGregor, elected last month to serve out the unexpired term of the late Congressman Ashbrook, filed two days ago for the Republican nomination for congress. So far he is the lone Republican in the race.

Four candidates for state representative, including three Democrats and a Republican, filed today with the election board, boosting to six the number of candidates seeking the party nominations for that post.

Democrats filing today were Atty. Leslie Wagner, Mansfield; Harvey Tucker of Monroe township, and David W. Cook of Shelby. C. L. Wolford of Bloomingrove township, a retired minister, filed on the Republican ticket.

Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz, Democrat, and Atty. R. J. Nichols, Mansfield, Republican, filed for prosecutor.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword, seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket, and his former deputy, Randall Barrett, a Republican, filed for engineer.

County Recorder Howard P. Wenning filed his petitions for the Democratic nomination for clerk of courts. There were 1,737 signatures on his petitions, more than any other county candidate has had so far.

Guy Stewart and Ray Hout, incumbent Democratic county commissioners, submitted their petitions for the same offices. Two of the three commissioner posts will be filled next fall.

SWEDEN BACKS FINNISH MOVE FOR ALLIANCE

Informs Finns She's Ready to Negotiate; 'Danger Not Over,' Nations Told.

in the initiating of Finnish-Russian peace talks was that of an intermediary, that Sweden put no pressure on Finland to accept Moscow's terms and that Germany had not tried to influence the Stockholm government.

Now that peace has been achieved, he said that "the northern countries should be prepared to direct their policy more purposefully than before" and added that the question of strengthening their cooperation should be submitted to "an unbiased examination."

At Helsinki, Finnish Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner said that Finland had taken the initiative in asking for conversations looking to a defensive pact with Sweden and Norway to insure her altered borders against further violation.

3-Power Alliance Imperative, Kallio Says.

HELSINKI — (AP) — President Kyosti Kallio told Finland today her losing fight made a Finnish-Swedish-Norwegian defensive alliance inescapably necessary.

The necessity of such an alliance, he said, has "become evident during this war" and he added:

"I dare to hope that the essentiality of a northern defensive alliance has become evident also to our neighbors during this war."

Finland counted on new fortifications and a possible alliance, if need be, to save her from Czechoslovakia's fate.

Shorn of heavily fortified frontiers by the pact of Munich, Sept. 29, 1938, Czechoslovakia just a year ago tomorrow passed under the rule of Adolf Hitler's reich.

President Kallio spoke in a broadcast address and he said to his people they should not forget that Finland still is independent and still possesses a powerful army.

He expressed appreciation for American relief activities and said that "in this respect the work done by former President Hoover has been of extreme value." He also thanked the Scandinavian countries and western powers fo rtheir aid.

Finns Leave Ceded Areas.

As he spoke all available trucks were on the road to begin the work of removing thousands of Finns from areas to be ceded to Soviet Russia.

Premier Risto Ryti and the delegation which accepted the Russian settlement in Moscow returned to Helsinki last night with the text of the peace pact.

Looking ahead, Kallio declared "this nation must count on its own strength and unity for the great reconstruction task," but added "we trust that those civilized nations which recognize the fundamental principles on which our defensive struggle was based will make it their duty to support us."

Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner made it clear that despite the crushing peace that ended 105 days of war with Soviet Russia, Finland intended to take every step to protect her newly-narrowed borders from future threats.

Asked if fortification of the new borders would be permitted, Tanner flashed back:

"Who is going to stop us?"

Nevertheless, with the great Mannerheim line and most of Finland's other frontier defenses ceded to Russia and a Russian naval base to be established on the key peninsula of Hanko under Tuesday's treaty of Moscow, Finland looked forward to discussions soon aimed at a defensive alliance with Sweden and Norway.

These northern neighbors already have agreed to talk it over at Finland's initiative, Tanner said, although they refused such an overture when the war was in progress.

To the mourning public of Finland, which lost thousands of its sons and much of its wealth in the futile struggle against invasion, the government broadcast a plea for continuing in peace the cooperation and unity that was so characteristic in war.

That epic struggle, the government said, was now just another "chapter of history," and Finland must turn to the task of restoring her ruined cities and humble homes laid in embers by Soviet bombing planes.

SAYS WAR WON'T KILL DEMOCRACY

Minister Sees Hope for U. S. Future in Closing Talk at P. T. A. Conference.

tance of appointing committees to co-operate in the annual summer round-up. The appointment of Dr. Mabel Emery of Mansfield as health chairman of Northcentral district was announced.

Education and High School Associations, O. E. Hill, Galion—There are four things that must be done in the P. T. A., he said. First, get away from the money-making complex; second, eliminate friction between school administrations and P. T. A.; third, stress the need of an interpretation of a high school program to parents; fourth, the P. T. A. must take more active part in school activities particularly social affairs.

Recreation and Public Welfare, Ralph B. McClintock, Steubenville—He urged the use of school buildings for community and recreational centers and parents to work for a state law to lower percentage of votes necessary to pass school bond issues. He also expressed the conviction that P. T. A. should assist in forming recreational programs, but should not try to run them.

Membership—Mrs. H. B. Goyert, state membership chairman—Urged parents not to be misled by "bootleg" organizations that follow the pattern of P. T. A. but refuse to join in the Ohio Congress of P. T. A. and its affiliates.

Magazines and Publications, Mrs. L. C. Staats, Canton—The success of the programs depends on organization and a comprehensive survey of community needs, and these are best made known through publications, she said. Mrs. Carl Martin, who assisted Mrs. Staats, suggested that the P. T. A. cooperate with other organizations such as the Ohio and the National Teachers associations.

Mrs. Tracy LaCost, Toledo, who is state president of the Ohio Congress, said that the P. T. A. is like an oak tree, and that every unit is like a leaf on the tree. She served as chairman of the panel discussions. A student conference was held at the close of the adult discussion in which Senior High students talked. H. D. Bishop, assistant principal of Senior High school served as director.

Among the student speakers were Robert Boals, Hi-Y representative; Robert Lantz, home room; Mirian Jenkins, Forum club; Lynn McCorquodale, of the Hyphonerian staff; Harry Mahon, Student Representative committee; Eldon Sneeringer, Class organization; Betty Bell, Girls' Athletic association; Robert Guegold, athletics; and Charles Swank, Vocation department.

They discussed what is meant by democracy, what it demands from students, how it is taught through games and how it is carried on in schools.

During the afternoon session, charters were granted to the newly formed Johnny Appleseed P. T. A., and to the Montgomery Township association in Ashland county.

tack of laryngitis which had nearly deprived her of her voice, turned the minor role of a Mexican servant into the most realistic bit in the play.

Mabel Owen Ward had some juicy lines at her disposal and she accentuated every one of them with a splendid stage manner.

Kathleen Sturges, in the feminine lead, "carried" a number of scenes by the sheer appeal of her personality. At no point in the play did her portrayal lose its evenness.

Richard Grudier probably held top rating with the entire feminine half of the audience by his good looks alone, but in addition he handed out a very satisfactory interpretation of the role of the earthy ex-football star.

Paul Bell, with the choice role of Gramp Maple, rose in several scenes to the good comedy local audiences have come to expect of him.

Among the other players particular mention should go to Joseph Keefe, Harold McCuen, John McCann, James Morgan, and Ferd Loykovitch. Bit parts which offered few lines or none were creditably handled by Robert Miller, Richard Gordon, Charles Newcomb, William Shauck, Daniel Reese, LaVerne Gunder, George Sattler, Robert Rhoads, Albert Jarvis, and Robert Leeds.

The play itself was one of the meatiest into which the Players have sunk their teeth in the past several seasons.

Tossing satire freely at Communism, the American Legion, the intellectuals, the capitalists, and American law enforcement, the author sought his denouement in the surrender of a selfish individual to a generous impulse. It was an old theme handled with a new twist. And the spectators were led to feel that in this surrender lay something of the crisis of an age in which man and nature seem to have reached a new locking of horns in their eternal struggle to best each other.

Almost the whole job of getting this across to the audience was left to the character played last night by Goodenough.

Settings for the show were designed by Harold McCuen. Properties were in charge of Daniel Reese, Kathleen Sturges, Marion Marshall, and Pearl Rube. Laurence Todd directed the music before the play and between acts. Other members of the production staff included George Sattler, Dorothy Bacon, Harvey Bailey, John McCann, Barbara Meisse, and Ed Smith.

The play was the last of the Player's 1939-40 season. Previously presented were "The Night of January 16th" and "On Approval."

Before the rise of the curtain last night, Dr. Philmour Bein, president of the Community Players, introduced H. W. Arlin, president of the board of education, who welcomed the audience to the new auditorium and invited them to join the public inspection and formal dedication of the new John Simpson building Friday.

SCHOOL HOLDS 'PARTY NIGHT'

Proceeds of Benefit Tomorrow Evening at Senior High to Go to Cappella Choir.

A "Party Night" program for the benefit of the Senior high school A Cappella choir, will be held tomorrow night in the school gymnasium and auditorium.

The affair is being sponsored my the school's Parent-Teacher association, and proceeds will be used to purchase new robes for the choir. Three complete music shows will be staged in the auditorium at 7, 8, and 9 p. m.

LeMoine Derr; Gene Gump, comedy dancer; Jack Saylor, tap dancer; a girls' trio singing popular songs, and Donald McLaughlin, tenor. ACOUSTICS OF HALL DEBATED a part of the players didn't speak cut so they could be heard all over the auditorium."

O. H. Matthews, one of the architects with Vernon Redding and Associates who drew plans for the school, said he could hear well enough last night from the back of the room.

"At any rate, it was the first program in the new auditorium and it could not be considered fair trial for the room," Matthews said.

He pointed out that Arlin, who spoke before the play in behalf of the board of education, was heard easily throughout the auditorium.

Dr. John S. Hattery, vice president of the school board, said if there was any difficulty in hearing the lines it probably was due to the state fittings and the fact that the players were usually far back on the stage.

"The acoustics will be checked carefully later to find if there is anything wrong with the construction," he added.

Persons in the balcony last night said they had no trouble hearing the lines. Virtually all of the complaints came from those on the main floor of the auditorium.

Mrs. Bacon said she discovered during the dress rehearsal for the play that there were "dead spots" on the main floor where it was difficult to hear the players no matter how clearly they spoke.

"Realizing that, I asked all of them to speak loudly and distinctly last night and some of them were almost yelling," she added. "We had far less trouble in the old Senior high school auditorium and we were always told the acoustics in it were poor."

Announce Winners In Stores' Bingo and Jingle Contest

The jingles were the determining factors in deciding winners of the contest. First prize of $50 in cash went to Mrs. Walter Rettig, 98 Orange street, whose jingle was:

Other cash prizes and their winners were: $25 to Mrs. L. L. Linkhart, 265 South Main street; $10 to Ira D. Miller, 71 Granite street; $5 to Mrs. Mae Diesem, 255 Marion avenue, and $1 each to the following, Elma Sparks, 566 Arlington; Allie Fitzsimmons, 24 Wise avenue; Bernice B. SWEDEN BACKS FINNISH MOVE FOR ALLIANCE

Informs Finns She's Ready to Negotiate; 'Danger Not Over,' Nations Told.

in the initiating of Finnish-Russian peace talks was that of an intermediary, that Sweden put no pressure on Finland to accept Moscow's terms and that Germany had not tried to influence the Stockholm government.

Now that peace has been achieved, he said that "the northern countries should be prepared to direct their policy more purposefully than before" and added that the question of strengthening their cooperation should be submitted to "an unbiased examination."

At Helsinki, Finnish Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner said that Finland had taken the initiative in asking for conversations looking to a defensive pact with Sweden and Norway to insure her altered borders against further violation.

3-Power Alliance Imperative, Kallio Says.

HELSINKI — (AP) — President Kyosti Kallio told Finland today her losing fight made a Finnish-Swedish-Norwegian defensive alliance inescapably necessary.

The necessity of such an alliance, he said, has "become evident during this war" and he added.

"I dare to hope that the essentiality of a northern defensive alliance has become evident also to our neighbors during this war."

Finland counted on new fortifications and a possible alliance, if need be, to save her from Czechoslovakia's fate.

Shorn of heavily fortified frontiers by the pact of Munich, Sept 29, 1938, Czechoslovakia just a year ago tomorrow passed under the rule of Adolf Hitler's reich.

President Kallio spoke in a broadcast address and he said to his people they should not forget that Finland still is independent and still possesses a powerful army.

He expressed appreciation for American relief activities and said that 'in this respect the work done by former President Hoover has been of extreme value." He also thanked the Scandinavian countries and western powers for their aid

Finns Leave Ceded Areas.

As he spoke all available trucks were on the road to begin the work of removing thousands of Finns from areas to be ceded to Soviet Russia.

Premier Risto Ryti and the delegation which accepted the Russian settlement in Moscow returned to Helsinki last night with the text of the peace pact

Looking ahead, Kallio declared 'this nation must count on its own strength and unity for the great reconstruction task," but added "we trust that those civilized nations which recognize the fundamental principles on which our defensive struggle was based will make it their duty to support us."

Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner made it clear that despite the crushing peace that ended 105 days of war with Soviet Russia, Finland intended to take every step to protect her newly-narrowed borders from future threats.

Asked if fortification of the new borders would be permitted, Tanner flashed back:

"Who is going to stop us?"

Nevertheless, with the great Mannerheim line and most of Finland's other frontier defenses ceded to Russia and a Russian naval base to be established on the key peninsula of Hanko under Tuesday's treaty of Moscow, Finland looked forward to discussions soon aimed at a defensive alliance with Sweden and Norway.

These northern neighbors already have agreed to talk it over at Finland's initiative, Tanner said, although they refused such an overture when the war was in progress.

To the mourning public of Finland, which lost thousands of its sons and much of its wealth in the futile struggle against invasion, the government broadcast a plea for continuing in peace the cooperation and unity that was so characteristic in war.

That epic struggle, the government said, was now just another "chapter of history," and Finland must turn to the task of restoring her ruined cities and humble homes laid in embers by Soviet bombing planes.

Minister Sees Hope for U. S. Future in Closing Talk at P. T. A. Conference.

tance of appointing committees to co-operate in the annual summer round-up The appointment of Dr. Mabel Emery of Mansfield as health chairman of Northcentral district was announced.

Education and High School Associations, O E Hill, Galion—There are four things that must be done in the P T A, he said. First, get away from the money-making complex, second, eliminate friction between school administrations and P T A, third, stress the need of an interpretation of a high school program to parents; fourth, the P T A must take more active part in school activities particularly social affairs.

Recreation and Public Welfare, Ralph B McClintock, Steubenville—He urged the use of school buildings for community and recreational centers and parents to work for a state law to lower percentage of votes necessary to pass school bond issues He also expressed the conviction that P. T. A. should assist in forming recreational programs, but should not try to run them.

Membership—Mrs. H. B. Goyert, state membership chairman—Urged parents not to be misled by "bootleg" organizations that follow the pattern of P. T. A. but refuse to join in the Ohio Congress of P. T. A and its affiliates.

Magazines and Publications, Mrs. L C Staats, Canton—The success of the programs depends on organization and a comprehensive survey of community needs, and these are best made known through publications, she said Mrs Carl Martin, who assisted Mrs Staats, suggested that the P T A cooperate with other organizations such as the Ohio and the National Teachers associations

Mrs Tracy LaCost, Toledo, who is state president of the Ohio Congress, said that the P T A is like an oak tree, and that every unit is like a leaf on the tree. She served as chairman of the panel discussions A student conference was held at the close of the adult discussion in which Senior High students talked H. D Bishop, assistant principal of Senior High school served as director.

Among the student speakers were Robert Boals, Hi-Y representative; Robert Lantz, home room; Mirian Jenkins, Forum club; Lynn McCorquodale, of the Hyphonerian staff; Harry Mahon, Student Representative committee; Eldon Sneeringer, Class organization; Betty Bell, Girls' Athletic association, Robert Guegold, athletics; and Charles Swank, Vocation department

They discussed what is meant by democracy, what it demands from students, how it is taught through games and how it is carried on in schools

During the afternoon session, charters were granted to the newly formed Johnny Appleseed P. T. A., and to the Montgomery Township association in Ashland county.

tack of laryngitis which had nearly deprived her of her voice, turned the minor role of a Mexican servant into the most realistic bit in the play.

Mabel Owen Ward had some juicy lines at her disposal and she accentuated every one of them with a splendid stage manner

Kathleen Sturges, in the feminine lead, "carried" a number of scenes by the sheer appeal of her personality At no point in the play did her portrayal lose its evenness

Richard Grudier probably held top rating with the entire feminine half of the audience by his good looks alone, but in addition he handed out a very satisfactory interpretation of the role of the earthy ex-football star

Paul Bell, with the choice role of Gramp Maple, rose in several scenes to the good comedy local audiences have come to expect of him

Among the other players particular mention should go to Joseph Keefe, Harold McCuen, John McCann, James Morgan, and Ferd Loykovitch Bit parts which offered few lines or none were creditably handled by Robert Miller, Richard Gordon, Charles Newcomb, William Shauck, Daniel Reese, LaVerne Gunder, George Sattler, Robert Rhoads, Albert Jarvis, and Robert Leeds.

The play itself was one of the meatiest into which the Players have sunk their teeth in the past several seasons

Tossing satire freely at Communism, the American Legion, the intellectuals, the capitalists, and American law enforcement, the author sought his denouement in the surrender of a selfish individual to a generous impulse It was an old theme handled with a new twist And the spectators were led to feel that in this surrender lay something of the crisis of an age in which man and nature seem to have reached a new locking of horns in their eternal struggle to best each other.

Almost the whole job of getting this across to the audience was left to the character played last night by Goodenough

Settings for the show were designed by Harold McCuen Properties were in charge of Daniel Reese, Kathleen Sturges, Marion Marshall, and Pearl Rube. Laurence Todd directed the music before the play and between acts. Other members of the production staff included George Sattler, Dorothy Bacon, Harvey Bailey, John McCann, Barbara Meisse, and Ed Smith

The play was the last of the Player's 1939-40 season Previously presented were "The Night of January 16th" and "On Approval"

Before the rise of the curtain last night, Dr Philmour Bein, president of the Community Players, introduced H. W Arlin, president of the board of education, who welcomed the audience to the new auditorium and invited them to join the public inspection and formal dedication of the new John Simpson building Friday

ACOUSTICS OF HALL DEBATED

Play Stirs Up Controversy as Audience Complains of Not Hearing Actors Lines.

a part of the players didn't speak out so they could be heard all over the auditorium."

O H Matthews, one of the architects with Vernon Redding and Associates who drew plans for the school, said he could hear well enough last night from the back of the room

"At any rate it was the first program in the new auditorium and it could not be considered fair trial for the room," Matthews said

He pointed out that Arlin, who spoke before the play in behalf of the board of education, was heard easily throughout the auditorium

Dr. John S. Hattery, vice president of the school board, said if there was any difficulty in hearing the lines it probably was due to the state fittings and the fact that the players were usually far back on the stage.

"The acoustics will be checked carefully later to find if there is anything wrong with the construction," he added

Persons in the balcony last night said they had no trouble hearing the lines Virtually all of the complaints came from those on the main floor of the auditorium.

Mrs Bacon said she discovered during the dress rehearsal for the play that there were "dead spots" on the main floor where it was difficult to hear the players no matter how clearly they spoke.

"Realizing that, I asked all of them to speak loudly and distinctly last night and some of them were almost yelling," she added "We had far less trouble in the old Senior high school auditorium and we were always told the acoustics in it were poor"

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1940.

All sorts of people drive cars—including those who honk their horn at pedestrians who have the right of way.

As Senator Norris puts it: "All government officials should not only do right but they should do right in the right way." Right!

A Maryland man who received no votes when he was a candidate for governor a couple of years ago is now running for senator—which indicates that Brazil has no corner on the nut crop.

Considering Future Needs

THE FEELING of satisfaction that comes with witnessing completion and occupancy of Mansfield's two fine new Junior high school buildings and the prospective improvement of railroad passenger stations should not be permitted to distract attention from the continuous program of progress that is essential to a growing and thriving city.

Years ago, for instance, it was the location of General hospital that brought requirement for the paving of Glessner avenue as a southside crosstown street. Now the southward trend of residential building and the location of the new Johnny Appleseed Junior high school brings a similar situation as to Cline avenue, between Lexington and Marion avenues, and steps toward the improvement of this street will probably be taken in the near future.

And not so long ahead there will also be need for a third Junior high school building, with probable location east of the Pennsylvania railroad, so as to be more accessible to children in that part of the city.

As a further development of Mansfield's public school system it is not unlikely that a second Senior high school building will be necessary, unless meanwhile it is deemed advisable to extend the Mansfield school district to include all of Madison township and use the present Madison high school for this purpose.

Growing need for an additional west-side fire station should not be lost sight of by officials and citizens, nor should the importance of modernizing Mansfield's water and sewer systems be minimized. Then there is also the increasing requirement for a new thoroughfare in the west part of the city to bridge the Erie and B. & O. railroad tracks and give safer and more convenient access to residents of the north-western part of the city.

Under continuance of intelligent leadership, and with the co-operation of civic-minded citizens, Mansfield's progress through the next ten-year period can be made even more satisfying to look back on than that of the decade just completed.

Printing, Useful and Otherwise

THE ART of printing, whose 500th anniversary is being celebrated this year, is not an unmixed good. An American clergyman observes that while printing has served in a general way to enlighten and free the human mind, it is being used today on a vast scale to enslave the mind.

This obviously is the case in dictatorship countries. The "burning of the books" in Berlin when Hitler came to power is a striking example. There, as in Russia, censorship forbids the printing of whatever the masters of the state do not approve. At the same time they are obliged to read what their masters command. This is true not merely of political matters but of many other things.

There is propaganda here, too, but it is not compulsory reading. Moreover, there is always counter-propaganda on controversial matters. It is the glory of American life and institutions that we have more literary freedom, and do more reading, than has ever been done anywhere else in the world.

Some of it may be rather poor stuff, but the best that mankind has ever produced anywhere is available cheaply in newspapers and magazines and free in public libraries.

Correcting Wrong House Numbers

SUGGESTION by city council that Mansfield property owners co-operate in correcting wrong house numbers on streets where numbers have been balled up for many years gives the impression of being an economical and sensible solution of a problem that might otherwise involve considerable unnecessary expense.

All that is needed is that council provide property owners with correct numbers, on the basis of street frontage, according to a plan adopted fifty years ago and still in effect on older streets.

There is no apparent need for complete re-numbering, although there would be an advantage in having plainly visible numbers on all homes and replacing some of the old ones that have become indistinguishable.

A "Check-up-on-your-house-number-day" might be properly included in the annual "Clean Up and Paint Up Week" soon to be observed in Mansfield.

Postponing the Evil Day

CONGRESS seems quite determined to avoid assessing any new taxes BEFORE election—nor is it at all likely that the present statutory debt limit of 45 billions will be increased to the suggested 50 billions BEFORE election.

But if the federal government continues to squander public money at the pace New Dealers have been going for the past seven years, the debt limit MUST be raised and heavier taxes MUST be assessed.

The national debt has now climbed to a total of $42,528,665,025—or within less than two and a half billion dollars of the present statutory ceiling.

To postpone action in raising the debt limit and assessing more taxes until AFTER election savors of chicanery that ill befits men elected to high places in either the executive or legislative branches of government.

Digging Up the Past

ONE of the richest discoveries in the history of Egyptology is the sarcophagus of King Psousennes at Sen el-Hagar. The jewelry found there is heavy with gold and stones and is said to be very beautiful.

Recent archeological research has not caught the public imagination as did the opening of the Tutankhamen tomb in 1922. Perhaps it was because it was so easy to nickname the young Pharaoh "King Tut," that Americans were more interested in him than in subsequent discoveries.

However, the digging goes on, not only in Egypt and Asia but in our own hemisphere and our own land. While statesmen and warriors seem to be trying to tear our civilization down, the archeologists are piecing together again the stories of human life and civilizations that have preceded us.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Years ago there came out of the gorilla dives of the big river towns a complicated form of piano playing known as boogie-woogie. Its rhythmic patterns were unpredictable. It was blood and bone stuff, bred in the fingertips, and only a few Negroes, and almost no whites, could play it. "Pine Top" Smith, now dead, and a few other famed rivertown characters, notably "Crippled Clarence" Lofton, and the two Yancey boys, Jimmy and Alonza, were boogie-woogie kings.

Around them gathered three big strong boys named Meade Lux Lewis, Pete Johnson, and Albert Ammons, who brought to boogie-woogie a sort of vague, slush-bottom refinement; then they brought it to Carnegie Hall. Since then they have prospered in an underground Greenwich Village tavern known as Cafe Society.

No one really knows what boogie-woogie is. It has never been set down on paper. But Elliot Paul, the novelist, thinks it goes straight back to the beginnings of what music was first intended for.

BASICALLY, it is a kind of bass figure with the right hand making variations around the left. But the left hand is melody, too, in a Bach sense. Simplified, you might say that boogie-woogie is a game of cops and robber, with the right hand (the cops) trying to overtake the left.

Modern swing addicts have misnamed boogie-woogie "gut-bucket," or low-swing, but Elliot Paul thinks it has loftier qualities. He came home from Paris just to study it, and only the other night he gave a concert with Ammons (his teacher), Lewis, and Johnson to a packed house at the Cafe Society. Paul is a bearded, shy, intensely enthusiastic man and one of the very few whites the Negroes accept as a top notch boogie-woogie player.

Famous for his "Life and Death of a Spanish Town," and at least eight other novels, Paul took some boogie-woogie records to Paris with him and attempted to transpose the notes to paper. He found that they defied him. When he returned to the States he sat at Ammons' elbow for months mastering its complicated patterns.

Boogie-woogie is full of "shakes" and embellishments, probably because it was "born" on rickety old pianos then on their last legs. The dilapidated old uprights have passed on, but the shakes have remained. When Paul gave his concert the other night Lewis, Ammons and Johnson stunned him by presenting him with a "diploma"; no other white man has ever received this signal honor from the boogie-woogie kings, although Bob Zurke (the old tomcat of the keys) and a few others are recognized as Grade-A players.

OF THE three, Paul says: "Ammons has an Olympian attitude towards his playing, and is always calm. . . . Johnson is serious and hard-working. . . . Meade Lux (Luxembourg) Lewis thinks in nocturns and has all the nostalgia of his race. Either instinctively follows. I couldn't lose them even if I stopped in the middle of a piece and began playing backwards. Neither reads a note, although Ammons once played piano for a famous orchestra for two months before they found out he couldn't read."

Paul has paused in the construction of his tenth novel, "Fracas in the Hills," to capture the elusive variations of boogie-woogie and put them down on paper. For the first time they are to be published in sheet-music form. He is doing this for Lewis, Johnson, and Ammons, who hope he is right.

Meanwhile, the boogie-woogie blows. It's a long, blue, smoky echo from the old river towns; maybe New Orleans was the first. The present citadel is No. 2 Sheridan Square.

THE CARE FREE LIFE IN A TRAILER

Health And Diet

"Starving a Fever" Advice Refuted.

—By DR. CLENDENING

I HAVE been asked to discuss the old saying, "Feed a cold and starve a fever."

The saying has practically no meaning because a cold is a fever. It probably originated far back in the dim mists of time when the doctrine of humours held the field and heat was supposed to be opposed to cold, dryness to moisture. Disease was supposed to be a disturbance of the balance of these qualities.

Fever was an abundance of heat, and could be reduced by lack of nourishment. The great Dublin doctor of the early nineteenth century, Robert Graves, spent a great deal of his time breaking up the idea of starving a fever and requested that there be inscribed on his tombstone the words, "He fed fevers."

Follow Nature's Instinct.

Looking at the whole subject from an enlightened view of the nature of disease, we would say that any infection is inclined to depress the digestive functions at the beginning of its course. The thought of food is repulsive. It is a pretty good plan to follow the instincts of nature in these respects and to follow along with the patient's symptoms. It does no harm, therefore, for most patients to go on a light diet or even starvation for the first few days of fever.

In the case of a long-continued fever, on the contrary, the fever itself makes very serious inroads on the bodily nutrition. This is true of typhoid fever and undulant fever. It is also true of tuberculosis, which is a form of fever. Under these circumstances it would be theoretically wise to feed enough to prevent this nutritional destruction.

In the old days, when typhoid patients were starved or fed very sparsely and only liquid foods, they came out of their typhoid fever in a state of pitiable emaciation. This gave rise to the plan of full feeding in typhoid, which applies also to any continued fever.

Physiologic studies have been made of the digestive system in patients with continued fever, and it has been found that in spite of their loss of appetite, the secretion of digestive juices is functionally efficient up to within 80 or 90 per cent of a normal person's. A sensible rule, therefore, is to feed a continued fever enough to maintain bodily weight so that the patient recovers in approximately the same state of nutrition as when the condition started.

So far as colds are concerned, the period of acute discombort is so short that no real nutritional defect occurs. As soon as the patient with a cold is able to eat, it is a very good thing to feed him to the limit of his ability on sweets, salt, meats and fruit.

Daily Bible Thought

Now, no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grevious; nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peacable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.—Hebrews 12 11.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The inventor of the cotton gin, Eli Whitney, obtained his patent on March 14, 1784. Though this revolutionized the cotton industry, the principle of the gin has remained the same since it was invented.

Listen, World!

Life Is Like That.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LIFE'S always disappointing you, isn't it? Life, and people. Doing things you don't expect them to do—shocking, inconsistent things that are all contrary to the rules!

Why can't Life turn out as you were told it would? Remember what you were told? How Honesty Was Always the Best Policy, and Virtue Always Triumphed?

Why can't people behave as you learned they should?

Long ago you learned all that. And if everything and everybody would act according to schedule, how simple and delightful life would be. But instead, see what really happens!

Like as not, Virtue DOESN'T triumph and Honesty DOESN'T pay! And the worst people turn out to be the kindest—and the best ones are the meanest in a pinch! And tiny, weak women often have more courage, and sometimes more cruelty, than great, big two-hundred pound men! And men who look like gorillas are apt to be ten times as tender-hearted as ladies who look like madonnas.

In short, you never can tell. Nothing happens as you thought it would. You can't believe a word you were taught! Everything's a mess—and you haven't an ideal left!

Is that how you feel, now that you've put school books away and are facing the World—As—Is? Probably. Most of us do feel that way. And most of us go through life feeling that way; trying to make People and Affairs fit into pretty patterns; flying into tantrums when they won't. And so our dreams are spoiled and our energies wasted, and life fizzles out in a fit of sulks!

It needn't! Life was meant to be a grand adventure for each one of us. And life can be an adventure if we'll take it as it comes, in its infinite variety, and not try to make it fit our own standardized notions.

Life isn't a picture puzzle, with neat bits which you can fit into their places if you'll keep trying. Life is a going concern, always changing, always upsetting old orders and creating new ones. You will never be able to understand life or manage or measure it, you will never be able to put the pieces all together.

THEN STOP TRYING!

TAKE LIFE AS IT COMES!

Will it come topsy-turvey? Will it raise Cain with your pretty plans and your neat notions? Undoubtedly it will, and thereby deal your laziness and stupidity and complacent conceit many a mean jolt.

But what if it does? You can't grow, unless you're jolted. And if things always happened the way you wanted them to happen, what adventure would there be in living?

SO TAKE LIFE AS IT COMES, WITH ALL IT'S SURPRISES, ITS SHOCKS, ITS ADVENTURES!

Stop thinking that you must judge, must punish, must "take a stand about things" because they don't suit you. Accept Life as it IS, and People as they ARE, though they be a million miles from what you expected them to be.

And what will happen? Do this for one week, and discover what will happen!

For one week, take as your philosophy these words: "LIFE IS LIKE THAT."

Say those words. Believe them. Act on them. Meet every unpleasant and upsetting experience with those words.

Do your duty, of course; but, having done it, don't try to run the rest of the show. Just let the show proceed while you watch it, enjoy it or profit by it. Then take a check on yourself. See what those three words have done to your life in one week.

YOU'LL BE SURPRISED!

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant factors behind the Finnish-Russian peace maneuvers was that they were inspired in large part by the invisible hand of the No. 2 Nazi, Field Marshal Hermann Goering.

Acting for him is the most powerful man in Scandinavia, Axel Wenner Gren, who has been a close friend of the German air minister ever since Goering married his first wife, the niece of the Swedish Baron Rosen. Somewhere in the Finnish-Russian peace picture also (though the state department denies it) may be Sumner Welles.

Wenner Gren, who controls the Bofors munitions company and is the richest man in Sweden, was on his yacht, the Southern Cross, in the harbor of Nassau a few weeks ago when he received a coded message from Goering. The cable asked him to take the same ship as Welles took on his peace mission.

Wenner Gren flew to New York, boarded the Rex, and when he got to Rome, saw Mussolini before Welles did.

Then he proceeded through Switzerland with Welles to Berlin, where he still is, and where he has been throwing his weight behind an early peace

Business Against War.

GOERING'S and Wenner Gren's interest in Finnish peace is easy to understand. From the viewpoint of the German army it would be just as disastrous to have Russia sweep through Finland and perhaps on to Sweden, as to have the Allies organize an expeditionary force to stop Russia.

In either case, Sweden's rich iron deposits would fall into the hands of a foreign power.

What the German army wants is a relatively tranquil Russia, from which Germany can draw raw materials. Also, the longer Russia is forced to continue fighting, the more vulnerable she becomes in the south, where are located the rich Batum oil fields, now invaluable to Germany.

Similarly, an Allied expeditionary force sent through Sweden, perhaps turning that country into a battlefield, would ruin the Wenner Gren interests. He is chairman of the Swedish Celullose company, took over a large part of the Kreuger interests, and heads the Electrolux company, Swedish parent of the American subsidiaries which make vacuum cleaners and refrigerators.

Note—The peace activity of Axel Wenner Gren illustrates the attitude of big business in both Wall Street and London's City. Unlike the case in the last war, American bankers are ardent rooters for peace. This time not they but Uncle Sam, through Jesse Jones, is lending the money. Not only is there no dough in war, but if Nazi-Communism wins, the capitalistic system stands in danger.

Merry-Go-Round.

HUGH WILSON, who was recalled as U. S. ambassador to Germany, hasn't a chance of going back. He has decided to gamble on a Republican victory next November, and has been flirting with the Republican national committee. Roosevelt is down on him . . . Axel Wenner Gren, although a friend of Goering's, is quite pro-American. His dark-eyed, fascinating wife comes from Kansas City. . . . The Wenner Gren yacht, Southern Cross, rescued 376 of the Athenia survivors last September. . . . Also it was the home of Greta Garbo during her recent stay in Florida and Bahamian waters. On it Greta ate copiously instead of dieting. Her dietician was trying to get her to put more weight around her shoulders. . . . Greta's wardrobe aboard the Southern Cross was so meagre that she wore slacks most of the time, hardly had an evening dress. Friends attributed this to the fact that she never goes shopping—that means being stared at.

Quaker Ambassador.

IF AND WHEN new ambassadors are exchanged between the United States and Germany—as now seems probable—the man most likely to go to Berlin as U. S. envoy is a Quaker named Clarence Pickett.

Pickett is head of the American Friends Service committee, a friend of Mrs. Roosevelt's and also close to Myron Taylor, ex-chairman of United States Steel and now American peace negotiator at the Vatican.

Pickett's appointment as ambassador to Germany is being promoted by these two powerful friends on the ground that the United States needs someone in Berlin who is in touch not merely with Nazi officialdom, but with the German people.

Pickett for many years has helped maintain a Friends' center in both Berlin and Vienna. This dates back to the days immediately after the armistice, when the Quakers sent relief missions to Austria and Germany, at one time were feeding most of the children in both countries.

Ever since, the Friends' centers in Berlin and Vienna have been given great freedom—even under Hitler.

Miners' Friends.

PICKETT now heads all of the Quaker relief work, and has been active not merely in Europe, but particularly among the unemployed in the United States. It was he who initiated the attempt to settle unemployed coal miners at Arthurdale, W. Va., later taken over by Rural Resettlement and now one of Mrs. Roosevelt's pet projects.

Mrs. Roosevelt has given all of her radio income and part of her newspaper income to this and other American Friends Service committee work. Myron Taylor, when chairman of the U. S. Steel corporation, also was interested in unemployment among miners and contributed $25,000 annually to Pickett for three years for their relief.

Failure of the United States to keep an ambassador in Berlin was one of the things for which Hitler is reported to have scolded Sumner Welles. Subsequently, Welles worked out a plan whereby Ambassador Dieckhoff, former German ambassador here, would return to Washington.

America's Step-Children.

SECRETARY ICKES is having a tough time getting someone to head his division of territories and island possessions. No less than four people have been offered the job since the promotion of Dr. Ernest Gruening to be governor of Alaska. Everyone of them turned it down.

The first was Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, just after he retired from the navy and from his spectacular mission as commander of the Asiatic fleet. Then Ickes offered it to Wayne Taylor, former assistant secretary of the treasury and now an official of the American Red Cross. Taylor also thought it was too much of a headache.

Wayne Coy, secretary to Paul McNutt, next got an invitation. Coy was with McNutt when he was high commissioner to the Philippines and was considered well qualified for the post. But he refused. Next Ickes offered the job to George A. Malcolm, attorney general of Puerto Rico. Still no luck.

Meanwhile, the people in these possessions are chafing over the delay in naming an administrator over their affairs.

New Lambs

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MANY times I passed a barn with a low-built sheepshed at the southern end. Often at morning feeding time I heard the muffled bleat of sheep's voices ranging from treble to bass. They heard the footsteps of the approaching farmer, and chorused a continuous welcome until he came into their midst. It was not difficult to tell when he poured the grain into the trough.

I stopped by the roadside, crossed the fence and went over to the shed. Through the open door I saw the man placing hay into a spacious rack where the animals could pull it through between the bars. They had no fear of him but nosed about his legs, smelled at his clothing and enjoyed his presence. In turn, I saw him place his large hand upon one woolly, upturned face and stroke it gently. I envied him, for well I know the joy of such companionship. The conscious trust and nearness of that ewe gave me a splendid biography of my neighbor.

When he saw me he pushed the patient head away and seemed nervous and a little shy. "Good morning," he said. I greeted him. "You have a fine bunch of ewes," I said.

"Yes—they ought to make me some money this year. A fellow can't take as much interest in something that don't pay."

I wondered, and thought that humans, like birds, will lure strangers away from their most precious treasure.

"Do you have any lambs?" I asked.

"Oh yes," he said. "Come up here." He led me to a strawy, clean, well-ventilated shed. As we neared it I heard a young lamb's call—as plaintive as that of a human baby. He opened a latticed door and a mother sheep, with twin lambs trailing her, came cautiously forward from a darker portion. Within ten feet of us she stopped, looked distrustfully at me, and stamped her right front foot as if to say in no uncertain terms, "You're close enough." Meanwhile, the two white lambkins, unmindful of my presence, began to feed, one on each side. They had taken nourishment before, for the process of blind instinct had given way to habit. I saw two little tails, erect and wriggling rapidly while the proud mother licked first one white woolly rump and then the other, bleating occasionally a low sheepish admonition. Whenever she looked at me her face became more tense and she stamped her foot again.

The farmer and I looked at each other with a smile between us.

"Them's the first," he said. "Ain't they fine specimens? In two more weeks or so ther'll be a hundred."

DRIVING SIXTY DOUBLES COST

Speed Gains Lesson, Too, Above Forty Miles Per Hour.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Why speed, asked President Charles M. Hayes of the Chicago Motor club today.

He explained:

"Traveling 30 miles per hour instead of 20 is definitely advantageous because a mile-a-minute is saved. The jump from 30 to 40 is also fairly profitable since half a minute per mile is saved. But at higher speeds you're risking your neck for seconds. By heavy-footing the accelerator from 50 to 60 only 12 seconds per mile are gained."

And, he added, it costs nearly twice as much to drive 60 miles an hour than it does to drive 45.

CHAPTER XIX

Star realized that faith in the woman he had married was the keynote of Milton Wood's devotion. Even if some one told him that Jennifer had been with another man, he would find some explanation for it. Yet neither had he believed the accusations Jennifer had made against Star. How that must have infuriated his wife to have him refuse to fire his secretary even after she had complained.

Star guessed that the battle between them would not cease until Jennifer had accomplished her purpose. But Star would keep her promise to Wood to do nothing to give Jennifer cause for complaint. Her attitude to Mrs. Wood should be above reproach.

Little did the girl suspect how difficult this resolution would prove. The following weeks were a test of her ability to keep it. Through her husband Jennifer made endless demands upon Star's time. Theater tickets had to be obtained during lunch hour, books and flowers chosen and sent to a friend in the hospital. Jewelry taken to be repaired. Not one task that the lady could not have done for herself, but if Milton suspected that any of these services were unusual, he did not mention it. Star performed them with care. Entrusted with Jennifer's pearls, she did not even eat until they were safely delivered.

Then the day came when Jennifer called over thet elephone and asked Star to address envelopes for a cocktail party.

"I'll send them down by the chauffeur," she said haughtily. "There will be about a hundred."

Star was furious but she replied sweetly, "Yes, Mrs. Wood."

That afternoon as she sat at her desk addressing the stack of invitations, her employer passed through her office.

"What are you doing?" he asked in surprise.

"Addressing the envelopes for your cocktail party."

His face flushed. Then he said, "You have enough to do without that. Put them back in the box."

She looked at him distressed.

"But, Mr. Wood, I don't mind doing it, really. I'll do them after closing time tonight."

"You'll do nothing of the kind," he insisted. "You are not a social secretary. This is a business office."

"I don't want to offend Mrs. Wood," she reminded him.

"I'll take care of that," he assured her.

* * *

Star rejoiced inwardly, but she had never seen him so annoyed. He was often irritable and impatient, behaving as if his nerves were on edge. This time, however, his gloom lasted for several days. Star thought disconsolately, "She's making him pay for it. It isn't going to help any for her to know that he's taking my part."

But although Star dreaded the effect this might have upon Jennifer, the only visible result was an abrupt cessation of all requests.

Another week passed uneventfully. Star, working hard all day, stopping at night to see her mother, tumbled into bed too tired to think. Until that fateful afternoon when she met Jennifer Wood coming out of the apartment across the hall from Mamie's.

The furtive-eyed man with the dissipated looking face was with Jennifer. At sight of Star, her eyes flashed with both hatred and fear.

Star started to speak but before she could do so Jennifer tossed her head and swept down the hall as if she did not know her. Star opened her mother's door and went inside.

Mamie asked interestedly, "Didn't I hear the door across in number eleven?"

Star sank into a chair.

"Yes. Why?"

"I thought I heard voices in there this afternoon. Did you see that woman with him? What did she have on?"

"A black suit and hat with a black veil."

"She's the same one that was here before. She always wears black and such swell clothes," Mamie said appreciatively.

* * *

Star's hands were cold. Her mouth felt dry. She was actually trembling from the shock. What was Milton Wood's wife doing in an apartment house like this? Coming here with a man whose cruel, cynical face reminded Star of Joe's, it was so evil.

"Some society dame stepping out on her husband," Mamie surmised with satisfaction.

Star scarcely heard. Jennifer had looked at her as if she wanted to kill her. "And now what?" Star thought fearfully. "What would Mrs. Wood do now?"

She had not long to wait. The very next morning while her husband was in conference with other executives, Jennifer appeared in Star's office.

"Mr. Wood is busy just now," Star said.

"I know it. I'll wait," Jennifer replied pleasantly.

Her face looked strained but her smile was friendly. She held a jeweler's box in one gloved hand.

"Oh, by the way," she said, "I brought you a little present. You've done so many things for me lately that Milton tells me I've been making a perfect pest of myself."

Star's eyes, blue and accusing, did not flinch.

"I was glad to do anything I could, Mrs. Wood. I don't want anything in return."

Jennifer opened the box with hands which trembled visibly.

"This is one of my favorite bracelets,' she said. "I should really like for you to have it."

Her tone, as falsely sweet as the one she used to wheedle her husband, sickened the girl who replied, "Thank you very much but I can't accept it."

"You can sell it," Jennifer urged in a low voice. "Those are real diamonds."

Star was so ashamed for Jennifer that the color flooded her face. Without even looking at the sparkling bauble, she shook her head.

"You haven't told him already?" the other woman cried.

"No," Star said, decisively.

"Well, then," Jennifer continued, drawing a breath of relief. "Not that this is a bribe. It's just after the bad start we've had I should like to be friends. You see I'm leaving for Europe in a few days. Perhaps my husband has asked you to make reservations."

"He hasn't asked me to do anything for you lately," Star informed her.

"Please accept my farewell gift," coaxed Jennifer, "just to show that you have no hard feelings."

* * *

How frightened she must be to lower her pride to such an extent! But Star knew now she had the upper hand. She, not Jennifer, was in a position to make demands.

"He loves you so much," Star said simply. "I don't see how you can act like that."

The other's eyes widened. An angry flush stained her smooth cheeks.

"What's that to you?" she demanded.

When Star did not reply Jennifer snapped the case shut and returned it to her pocketbook.

"All right, let me tell you something. You may not think you can hold this over me but after all you'd have a hard time proving anything. Look," she added with a desperate attempt to control her temper, "he won't believe you anyway, so why hurt him? I've been a bit foolish. Indiscreet, perhaps, but I have put this other person out of my life. I never intend to see him again. That's fair, isn't it? If you love my husband, and you need not try to deny it because I can see you do . . ."

"I've no intention of denying it," Star said deliberately. "And I won't tell him, but from now on I shall feel perfectly justified in getting him from you if I can."

HONOR CHARTER FARM MEMBERS

Richland County Bureau Marks 20th Anniversary; 91 Get '20-Year' Pins.

The Richland County Farm bureau marked the 20th anniversary of its founding with a dinner meeting Tuesday night in the First Methodist church.

Ninety-one charter members of the organization received "Twenty-year Membership" pins. Harry E. Miller, chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting, said a number of other charter members are living in the Richland county area and they will be awarded pins as soon as they are located.

The organization now has more than 1,000 members, largest membership of any county in Ohio.

Brief talks were given by six past presidents of the farm bureau, Charles W. McBride, R. J. Elliott, Harry E. Miller, H. H. Wolf, O. J. Gramly, and Clarence Mowry. Minutes of the first meeting 20 years ago were read by Mowry.

R. L. Smith, Springfield township, toastmaster at the dinner, paid tribute to Willard McCullough and John A. Crone, deceased former presidents.

Other speakers included William Barden, first agricultural extension agent in Richland county; George B. Ganyard, the present county agent, and Carl C. Bair.

Autoists Urged To Sing Hymns While Driving

(By International News Service)

MANITOU SPRINGS, Colo.—Because highway traffic has become so dangerous, the Rev. L. C. Miller, pastor of the Mennonite church in Manitou Springs, urged motorists to learn to sing hymns while they are driving.

In a Sunday sermon, Rev. Miller said:

"Our highway traffic has become so unsafe that the moment a person drives upon a public thoroughfare he should sing, softly and seriously—if he has any regard for his future abode—hymns that are indicated by his speed.

"At 25 miles per hour—I'm But a Stranger Here, Heaven Is My Home.'

"At 45 miles—'Nearer, My God, to Thee.'

"At 55 miles—'I'm Nearing the Port and Will Soon Be at Home.'

"At 65 miles—'When The Roll Is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There.'

"At 75 miles (which appeared to be the top in the clergyman's speed limit.)—'Lord, I'm Coming Home.' "

16 SCIENTISTS

to amaze world with great discovery about

CONSTIPATION

Tests at world-famous hospital reveal how Nature's own gentle, complete "daily" bowel movements can be produced

Get relief from headaches, indigestion and nervousness due to Constipation. Then feel peppier—keener of mind. Brighter eyes.

AFTER months of intensive tests in one of the world's most famous hospitals—16 scientists have discovered sensational facts about an IDEAL "daily" treatment for constipation—

It has been definitely proven one of the chief causes of constipation is lack of moisture in the colon. Waste matter then becomes caked, dry, hard and difficult to move on. Constipation often follows with its headaches, dull eyes, sallow muddy skin, and you "tire easily."

Tests showed that the taking of many cathartics, laxatives, and harsh "roughage" products often made this condition worse.

SUCCESS AT LAST!

But these clever men of science found a way to ACTUALLY PRODUCE NATURE'S OWN GENTLE PLEASANT BOWEL ACTION. Simply take a little daily dose of healthful Kruschen, (world-famous formula), in a glass of water.

Kruschen now comes in effervescent form—sparkling—"bubbling"—and makes a most pleasant tasting drink. Kruschen keeps waste matter in the colon moist and soft and enables it to be gently expelled from the body. No nausea! No griping! No violence! Truly an IDEAL treatment for more gentle, complete "daily" elimination of harmful poisons, acids and waste. ALSO a splendid mild antacid and kidney diuretic. Inexpensive!! A jar that lasts WEEKS costs only a trifle. Over 245,000,000 jars of Kruschen have been sold by druggists thruout the world—Kruschen must be good and do the work! Made in U.S.A.

Now comes in delightful, pleasant tasting "bubbling" form!

RURAL SINGERS VIE TOMORROW

Choruses From 4 County High Schools Compete in First Festival at Madison.

Students from four Richland county high schools will compete in the first annual County Music Festival at 8 p. m. Friday in the Madison high school auditorium.

The festival, the first ever attempted in the county, is expected to become an annual event and will feature musical organizations of Madison, Bellville, Shiloh and Plymouth high schools.

Divided into two parts, the first part of the program will consist of several numbers by an all-county band and all-county chorus, and the last half will be ten-minute programs by one organization of each school. Individual school contributions will include, Madison, the A Cappella choir, Plymouth, the Girls' glee club, while Bellville and Shiloh will be represented by their bands.

Musical supervisors of each school, directing the festival, are James T. Weber, Madison; Paul P. Eley, Shiloh; Douglas Thomas, Bellville, and Byron Griest, Plymouth. The festival was arranged by musical supervisors and superintendents of the four schools.

NEW ORDER SEEN

Eskimo Dogs to Replace Noted St. Bernards in Alps.

MONTREUX, Switzerland—(AP)—The famed dogs of the Hospice Grand Saint Bernard haven't been formally introduced yet, but their competitors have arrived in Switzerland's mountains.

Six tough Hudson Bay huskies, complete with dog sled and harness, arrived in Switzerland to see how they like it. If they work as well in Switzerland they'll stay and more will come.

Jean Gabus, Swiss wirter and explorer, brought them back after an exploration trip through the Hudson Bay region to outlying Eskimo villages in the north.

Monks of the Grand St. Bernard hospice have asked him to inform them how the dogs work in snow, for they are believed to be stronger and to possess pads to be better protected against snow than the famed St. Bernard dogs.

WAR HITS HOME

He's Far Removed From Scene of Battle, Not Tragedy.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex.—(AP)—John Carlstrom of Port Arthur, chief engineer at an oil refinery here, is many miles removed from the Russo-Finnish conflict, but the war has come home to him.

First came a message that his father, more than 70 years old, had been killed by a bomb at Viipuri, Finland. Then other messages revealed that three brothers were slain fighting for Finland.

Carlstrom himself fought in the Finnish army against Russia 21 years ago.

2 of Choruses In County Music Festival

Two of the four county high school choruses that will take part in the first annual Richland County Music Festival at 8 p. m. Friday in the Madison high school auditorium are shown above. At the top is the Plymouth high school chorus, directed by Byron Griest. The other group is the Shiloh high school chorus directed by Paul P. Ebey. The festival program will include both vocal and band music, and will feature an all-county band and an all-county chorus made up of students from the four participating schools. Other schools taking part are Madison and Shiloh.

HAIR STYLES CALL FOR STARS ON FOREHEAD---'N' EVERYTHING

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Gone with the Wind—The Star Spangled Banner—The Horn of Plenty. . .

Not motion picture titles but merely names for milady's coiffures as they will be worn this spring and as they were being exhibited today at the Ohio Hairdressers' convention and Easter parade preview.

Stressing the patriotic angle, the latest trends are sweeping, graceful, streamlined and colorful. As explained by Gail, New York fashion writer, the coiffures were designed from a purely American angle.

Unique in creation, the Star Spangled coiffure will be worn this spring at the swank social affairs. It is a mixture of four or five corkscrew curls tied with tiny red, white and blue ribbons. On the forehead are worn miniature silver stars. Preferably, the evening gown should be white.

The horn of plenty features a more sophisticated note, piling the hair high on sides and shadow waving it at the back. Fullness in the front and filling in under the ears adds a new and youthful note. Gone with the wind is similar with ribbons in the back.

The "beau catcher" coiffure features a tiny braid down the otherwise sleek crown with the hair slightly upward at the sides. For formals, large black taffeta bows slip under the braid.

DUD BOMB SCARE

Authorities' Discovery Turns Out To Be Only Fireworks.

NEPHI, Utah—(U.P.)—Nephi authorities thought for a while they had a real, honest-to-goodness bombing attempt on their hands—but it turned out to be a dud.

A bomb-like device was found in a canal near the intake of the city's hydro-electric plant. Officers gingerly removed the object from the water and sent it to a police laboratory for examination.

It turned out to be part of a Fourth of July fireworks display.

Airline Executive Says Ability Developed as Reporter.

NEW YORK—A one-time newspaper man, who has replaced the red ink on an airline's ledgers with black, credits a good part of his success as an executive to his training as a reporter.

"A man must pay atention to details," says Sigmund Janas, president of Canadian Colonial Airways, operating between New York and Montreal.

"A reporter scrutinizes the smallest item on a police blotter. It may develop into a big news story. An airline executive must watch the little things which may spell the difference between profit and loss. When we discontinued serving afternoon tea aloft, and complaints began coming in, we started it again in a hurry."

Janas is a graduate of both the University of California and the University of San Francisco. He worked as a reporter in Sacramento and San Francisco, and is a former chief deputy for the California Superintendent of Banks.

DOG FINDS WAY BACK WITH CHILD

BUTTE, Mont.—(AP)—Dolores Smith, 11, and her dog, Patty, deforest when the family stopped cided to take a little walk in the in the hills near here while out riding. The little child led the way. Soon she was lost, the dog followed patiently at her heels.

Finally, after several hours, when the dog realized they were lost, he took the lead and brought Dolores back to her worried family just as darkness was setting.

P. T. A. Conference Speakers And Guests Confer And Dine

Rev. Neil Crawford, Athens pastor and lecturer, who was principal speaker at the P. T. A. district conference session last night, took time out to talk to Superintendent of Schools W. L. Miller; in the picture at the left. In the picture at the right, the cameraman caught three leaders of the conference discussing something that was obviously very pleasant at the banquet table. Left to right they are, Mrs. I. W. Basinger, director of Northcentral district of P. T. A.; Mrs. Milo Hieber, president of the Mansfield Council, and Mrs. Tracy LaCost, Toledo, president of the Ohio Congress of P. T. A.

FAUCETS NEEDED

HOLYOKE, Mass.—(INS)—Does one student need nine showers all spitting water at one time? A single faucet at the H. B. Lawrence school controls nine showers in the men's quarters and if one man wants a shower, all nine pour forth water. The same holds true in the women's section where one faucet controls four showers.

If there are no distant relations at a man's funeral it's a safe bet that he died poor.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I flung up my hands in mock contrition at Lillian's question.

"No, we haven't eaten," I said. "But neither has anybody else. I told Katie to have a late luncheon today, because I was afraid Philip Veritzen's visit might interfere with Mary's late rehearsal."

"You mean you wanted to be sure he wouldn't stay for luncheon," she gibed.

"Neither would you," I said belligerently, "if you had to get Mary through that final rehearsal without her going to pieces. She's nervous enough as it is without sitting through a luncheon with her father-inlaw."

"You've said too much," she retorted with a grin. "All you needed for the perfect retort was 'Neither would you.' Luncheon with Philip Veritzen at this particular time is just one of those things I would loathe, although there are occasions when I would love eating with him. So you don't need to make any apologies. But if you think I'm going to let you get away with rehearsing Mary without something in both your little tum tums first, you have two, three more thinks coming."

I knew there was no use arguing with her, so I promptly capitulated.

"All right," I said. "But I warn you I won't take time to come down to the dining room and eat luncheon with the family."

"Who's asking you to?" she demanded. "Some day, my girl, I'm going to cure that brashness of yours, if I have to chop down a hickory tree to get a suitable paddle. Go on up now, waken Mary and get her in shape for the rehearsal. In the meantime I'll tackle Katie and tell her you want to turn her sitting room into a stage and that you and Mary want luncheon trays sent up to you. You know what she's going to say, don't you?"

"Indeed I do," I returned laughing, "and I'm glad you're managing that girl. She's going to emulate Mother Graham in her strictures that her sitting room isn't fit for a pig to root in, let alone her Missis Graham and Mees Mary. She'll want to come up and start to clean house, but if you let her up the back stairs for more than two minutes by the clock—I—I'll do something to you. I haven't thought it out yet."

"Save your brain," she advised airily. "I'll manage Katie. Have you any preference in luncheon dishes, or has Mary?"

"Plenty of hot tea for both of us," I returned promptly, "and then anything light. Katie knows what we both like—and dislike. But nothing heavy."

"I'll see that she doesn't give you corned beef and cabbage," she promised with a laugh as she turned toward the stairs. "Au revoir! Come down to that window seat outside your father's room as soon as you're through with Mary. If the Chief already has sent for us, I'll be watching for you through the keyhole, and see that you get in."

"Wait a minute!" I said breathlessly as a sudden recollection came to me. "Will you keep a weather eye on Edith while I'm up with Mary? She's in my room, asleep, and I promised her that when she awakened I'd talk things over with her. She was in a self-flagellating mood just before I gave her a sedative and some hot milk, and, frankly, I didn't want to listen to her."

"She might have told you something you could have held over her head as blackmail," Lillian said in such convincing fashion and with so straight a face that suddenly the blessed relief of laughter came to ease the tension of my nerves.

"I hadn't thought of that," I said. "But I haven't time to do anything about it now. If she wakens, will you tell her I'm detained, and will see her later?"

"I'll do that little thing," she said. "I'll also scout around in perfectly lady-like and discreet fashion to find out what's she really up to. And if she's working any double-cross on you, there won't be enough of her left to which you can address any remarks pro or con."

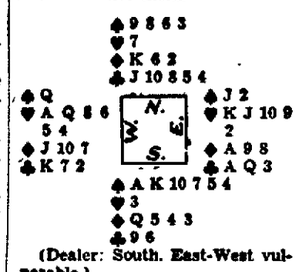
"The Authority on Authorities"

THINK IT THROUGH

PSYCHIC bids will seldom damage your side if both you and your partner will do some careful thinking. Most of the occasions on which they prove profitable are those on which one opponent of the tricky bidder fails to employ his reasoning powers as well or as thoroughly as he might. There is usually enough of a clue to the situation to enable you to figure out what your rivals are up to and thwart them.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
2 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

North could see that, with a passing partner, his side had practically no chance to prevent a game for the vulnerable opponents unless he could bamboozle them out of it, hence his crazy opening bid. East passed to see if his opponents would get into trouble at hearts. But, when North passed his partner's spade overcall, East could be virtually certain North's opening was a fake. His bid of hearts, at the range of two when vulnerable, certainly indicated substantial strength.

South's second bid, after scenting his partner's machinations, was mainly to obstruct the opponents. The one unpardonable act of the auction was West's pass. He explained later that he read North as having a bare borderline opening, and East's 2-Hearts as a sort of informative-double type of cue-bid to get him to bid one of the unnamed minor suits.

He didn't go far enough to figure that if East could thus afford to force the bidding into the three level, he must be quite strong. West should have bid 4-Hearts without a qualm.

It was a sad story. South made his 2-Spades, losing two tricks in diamonds, two in clubs and one in hearts, whereas East and West could have made five hearts, losing only one spade and one diamond.

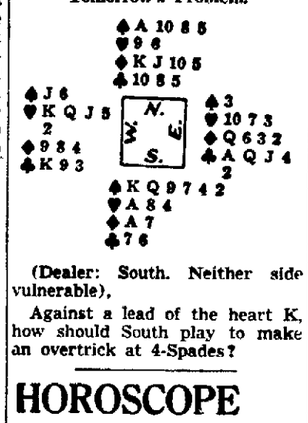
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable),

Against a lead of the heart K, how should South play to make an overtrick at 4-Spades?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, March 15.

Judging by the lunar and mutual aspects, this will be a day in which affairs will move at a particularly high tempo, with much force and aggressiveness directed toward major objectives. The energies and faculties will be deep-seated and serious, and profoundly ambitious projects should succeed, especially if promoted by group action of a drastic and even ruthless tension. Refrain from strife and impetuosity. The personal relations may be pleasant and progressive.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which ambitious aims and projects will be accelerated to a high pitch by aggressive and drastic attack. New and daring propositions may count on the support of groups and organizations. Select associates of power and energy but avoid strife, impetuosity and recklessness. There will also be sympathy and support from social, domestic or affectional sources.

A child born on this day may be bold, aggressive, practical and studious, and have highly-creative abilities in many directions. It also may be kindly, sympathetic and co-operative with social groups having humane objectives.

6-ROOM HOMES FAVORED HERE, SURVEY SHOWS

Trend's Away From Larger Dwellings; 5-Room Units Next in Line.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth of a series of articles on the work and findings of the Real Property inventory, better known as the RPI, conducted by the WPA in Mansfield.

By HAROLD K. MANSFIELD
Director, Real Property Inventory

The real property inventory, attempting to check the adequacy of Mansfield's housing—or the lack of it—inquired as to how many rooms each dwelling contained, but not their size; how many stories in each structure and how many structures had garages and basements.

Mansfield's area has increased faster than it's population, which means that we now have room for wider streets, larger lawns and more playgrounds. As the older cities grew, space was at a premium, and people crowded into small areas. It was necessary to live near one's work, since transportation was a real problem.

For the past 20 years or more, the factory employe has had his own car in which to ride to and from work. It was no longer necessary for workers to live close to their work. We are fortunate that our greatest growth has occurred during the past 20 years. There has been plenty of space for expansion of home areas. Hence, Mansfield has never developed any real slum areas as you find in older and larger cities.

Six-room dwelling units are the favorite in Mansfield and account for almost a third of the total—3651 being the exact count or 30.1 per cent of the total. Practically all these six room units are single family houses but there are a few in doubles, duplexes and apartments.

5-Room Units Increasing.

Five-room units are next with 2677 or 22.1 per cent of the total and in this group are included the five room bungalows, five room story and a half houses and five-room apartments. In the past few years, there have been a very large number of small five room houses built. Contractors will tell you that the trend has been away from the large seven and eight room houses and a great increase in the demand for the smaller homes.

Seven-room homes are third with 1685 units or 13.9 per cent. The next classification includes 8-room units and all those with more than eight rooms and that percentage is 11.4 per cent, or 1382. The remaining dwelling units are as follows: 4 room, 1233 or 10.2 per cent; 3 room, 852 or 7.0 per cent; 2 room, 466 or 3.9 per cent; and one room, 174 or 1.4 per cent.

The summary for the 203 urban areas in which surveys were made during the period 1934 to 1936, gives their average percentages under three headings: 1 to 4 rooms, 5 rooms, and 6 or more rooms.

The totals for Mansfield on that basis are: 1 to 4 rooms, 22.5 per cent; 5 rooms, 22.1 per cent; and 6 or more rooms 55.4 per cent. Following are the averages for the 203 cities from coast to coast: 1—4 rooms, 34.4 per cent; 5 rooms, 23.3 per cent and 6 or more rooms, 42.3 per cent. Ohio is in the Northeast section, so let us consider the percentages for that section alone: 1—4 rooms, 29.1 per cent; 5 rooms, 22.5 per cent; and 6 or more rooms 48.4 per cent.

There are 6949 of the dwelling structures which have garages, this being 69.7 per cent of the total. The garage may be attached to the house or unattached, just so it is on the same lot with the house.

It was learned that 8849 of the dwelling stuctures have basements under them or 88.8 per cent of the total. This means there are 1117 houses in and around Mansfield that have no basements. To count as a basement, the excavated space must be high enough for a person to stand in and must extend under at least half of the structure.

Over two-thirds of our structures are two-story. We have 6836 of this type or 68.6 per cent of the total. There are 1729 per cent of 17.3 per cent of the homes that are one and one half stories and 1224 or 12.3 that are only one story. We also found 105 that had two and one half stories, 70 with three or three and one half stories and but 4 that had four or four and one half stories.

An interesting fact in the report on the 203 urban areas, was that the one story structure was the most common type in every region of the United States except the northeast. Only 15 per cent of the buildings in the northeast were one story as compared to over 50 per cent in each of the other regions. Also in the northeast section, 69 per cent were two stories as compared to our 68.6 per cent.

FUGITIVE BACK IN REFORMATORY

Inmate Who Escaped From Honor Camp 4 Years ago, Returned.

An Ohio State reformatory trusty who fled from the Sandusky honor camp nearly four years ago was back in the institution today with two years additional to serve as a penalty for his fling at freedom.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said the inmate is Steve Tobaz, 26, of Trumbull county. He was returned yesterday by reformatory guards from Terre Haute, Ind., where he had been picked up by authorities.

Tobaz walked away from the honor camp Oct. 25, 1936, after serving little more than a year of a one to 15 year sentence for burglary and larceny. He was committed Feb. 9, 1935.

Put Donahey With Roosevelt on New Third Term Ticket

NEW DEALERS SPECULATE ON SUGGESTIONS

White House 'Inner Circle' Said to Have Sounded Out Senator on Proposal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A new third term ticket, with Senator Vic Donahey, of Ohio, cast as the running mate of President Roosevelt, was talked about in New Deal circles today.

A member of the White House "inner circle" is reported to have sounded out Donahey recently on his availability for the second place nomination if Mr. Roosevelt is drafted by the Democratic convention in July. Donahey is said to have withheld any commitment one way or the other.

When queried about this report, Donahey withheld comment.

The Roosevelt-Donahey ticket was suggested by some New Dealers after earlier efforts to promote Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, for the post failed to win his assent. Wheeler is said to have dismissed the "feeler" by declaring he did not believe the president would be a candidate for a third term and asserting his interviewer was speaking without presidential knowledge.

The Donahey rumor meanwhile indicates the New Deal's "inner circle" is confident of drafting Mr. Roosevelt. They have started out in the first Democratic preferential primary by lining up New Hampshire's eight convention votes for a third term. The New Hampshire Democrats will have to vote for Mr. Roosevelt, under local law, until he releases them.

Choice of Donahey as the president's running-mate, if there is a third term ticket, would not be surprising. The senator, a veteran liberal, has been on the warmest personal relations with the president. He comes from a pivotal state that has bobbed back and forth between the Republican and Democratic columns. He has proven many times that he is the most popular vote-getter among Ohio Democrats, having been elected governor three times and senator once. The last time he carried every congressional district in the state.

Has Strong Following.

Donahey has always had strong followings among farmers and union workers. He always won many Republican voters to his standard. He will be 67 in July, but Vice President John N. Garner was 68 when re-elected to that office in 1936.

A stumbling block to a Roosevelt-Donahey ticket might be the senator's recent announcement he is going to retire from politics at the end of his present senatorial term. He declared he was retiring "after 35 years in official service for a much needed rest and the preservation of my health."

Killer of Former British Official Held for Murder

LONDON —(INS)— Mohamed Singh Azid, the Indian gunman who yesterday assassinated Sir Michael O'Dwyer, lieutenant governor of Punjab during the Amritzar massacre of 1919, was charged formally with murder today.

The Indian was brought into Bow Street police court under a heavy guard and the murder charge was lodged. Azad then was remanded in custody for a week.

Bullets fired by the gunman when he felled Sir Michael also wounded the Marquis of Zetland, secretary of state for India, Sir Louis Dane and Maron Lamington, former governor of Bombay.

(At Calcutta the newspaper Star of India termed the assassination a "dastardly deed" and added:

("However bitter India might have felt against Sir Michael, she hangs her head in shame as no one wished his death.)

"I didn't mean to kill him," Azad told the court. "I just did it to protest. I didn't mean to kill anybody."

Late last night the Indian in a statement to police said that his brother had been killed in the Amritzer riots.

Relief Rolls Climb to New High In February

Up and Down THE STREET

A reporter sat in a downtown restaurant catching a late lunch yesterday and checking up on the work of his confreres on a New York paper when he ran across an advertisement announcing the appearance of Mansfield's "Red" Skelton at a theater on Times Square. It so happens that Skelton's brother, Paul, works in the kitchen of that restaurant and when he was called out to see the ad he read it with more than usual interest. "The guy's been so busy," he commented, "that he doesn't get much chance to write and this is the first time in weeks I've known where he is."

Although they didn't know about it at the time, four Mansfield Boy Scouts saved Mrs. William Pries, Olivesburg road, some confusion as well as money by a "good turn" this week. Hiking along the road, the scouts found several envelopes lying in front of the Pries mail box and returned them to Mrs. Pries. The envelopes contained checks that were being mailed to pay bills and fell from the box. Floyd Dent, area scout executive, was notified of the deed by Mrs. Pries.

Mansfield boxing fans came away from the Friendly House amateur show last night convinced that the Carbettas are now the city No. 1 boxing family. The Carbetta family was represented in four of the 10 bouts and the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carbetta, 215 North Mulberry street, came through with victories. They're all small fellows, too, Paul, the oldest at 18, tipping the scales at 112; Joe, 16, at 110; Cosmo, 14, at 99, and Orlando, 13, at 82.

A recent issue of Readers Digest carried a story which involves an ex-Mansfielder, J. D. Stotler, former manager of the J. C. Penney company store here. Stotler and another man met in Baton Rouge, La., in 1932, and made a wager that is designed to pay off more than two billion dollars—but neither of them will benefit by it, for the pay-off isn't until 2432 A. D. Stotler bet the other man that Louisiana's then new state capitol would stand for 500 years, and the other man bet that it wouldn't. They deposited $2.50 each in a bank there, at 4 per cent interest, specifying that the money is to be paid the heirs of the winning party 500 years from now. Someone figured out that the bet with compounded interest, would amount to $2,084,496 605.22. Stotler left here about 12 years ago.

MURDER CASE NEAR WIND-UP

Defense Indicates 'Surprise Witness' to Be Last Called in Student's Trial.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Defense counsel for John L. McCormick, 21-year-old University of Pittsburgh senior, indicated today a surprise witness would be presented before the case goes to the jury of nine women and three men.

The youth is charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of Theodore Nichols, a special guard, during a Western Union Telegraph office holdup here Jan. 8.

Common Pleas Judge Samuel E. Kramer withheld official closing of testimony yesterday after a private conference with Defense Attorney James C. Connell. Final arguments to the jury will begin immediately after the last defense witness is heard.

Withdrawal by Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan of one count in the murder indictment, charging only the killing of Nichols, left the jury with four possible verdicts.

They could be: guilty of first degree murder, making the death sentence mandatory; guilty of first-degree murder with a recommendation of mercy, meaning life imprisonment; not guilty by reason of insanity, under which McCormick would be committed to Lima State hospital for the criminal insane to remain there until it is ascertained that he is sane, whereupon he would be set free; not guilty.

SINGLE SONG TOOK NOVIS FROM BOXING, GAVE HIM NEW CAREER

By JANE WILLIAMS

Kid Nightingale came out of Whittier, Cal. more than a dozen years ago to win $5,000 on a single song and thereby the boxing world lost a fighter that was as handy with his dukes as his larnyx, and the entertainment world got Donald Novis.

In his dressing room at the Madison theater last night (he's one of two headliners with the Hollywood Variety Revels) Novis looked back over the 13 years since he won the national Atwater-Kent audition, and admitted that he'd rather sing than fight any day—despite the fact that there's a lot of Irish in his eyes and smile.

Thirteen years ago he was pretty definitely set on a career. He'd been studying physical education along with boxing and he intended to become a "physical ed" instructor. But he had a way of singing which warmed the hearts of listeners and decided to try out in the local Atwater-Kent auditions. His success in his home town was repeated in the national contest and he won the $5,000.

And that changed his career-course entirely. In the years that followed, when he became the No. 1 tenor of the airways, played in pictures with Jeanette MacDonald and Maurice Chavalier, the old ambitions were remembered only when he went to bowling alleys and gymnasiums.

Last night he brought out a series of pictures of the two women in his life—his wife and his 8-month-old daughter, Carol, the latter soaking up the California sunshine with not so much as a sarong to her name.

Novis' co-star on the Revel's bill is Judy Starr, who has sung with three of the nation's name bands. Judy, who is four feet, nine inches, weighing exactly 82 pounds, is the original Little Red Riding Hood, whose eyes are bigger than Grandma's and whose giggle infects her audiences. She was born in Georgia, lives in Clarksburg, W. Va., wears a diamond-studded wedding ring, has an 8-year-old daughter, and bowls 105 (which isn't bad for a beginner) and bought a new 16-pound mineralite ball in Mansfield which she'll take with her.

The Variety Revels as seen last night at the Madison—it remains there through today—is just a part of the big unit which left Hollywood several weeks ago. There are 14 in the company, including the eight-piece orchestra and they stage a lively and entertaining 45-minute show.

The Mousie Powell band is good with Powell and his drummer working like stevedores to please the audiences. In fact the entire show is 90 per cent music, for both Novis and Judy Starr sing and in addition there are the Andrini Brothers from South America who make up a satisfactory show in themselves. The boys play string instruments.

Novis, who also M. C.'s the show, sang "Mother Machree," "South of The Border," "South American Way," and the popular "All The Things You Are." The only dancer in the show is Meta Carlyle, who is attractive and talented. There is no chorus and no spectacular scenery, no risque jokes, but a lot of satisfactory music.

GALION—Joseph Littler of Galion will receive his degree of Master of Science Friday afternoon at the regular graduation exercises at Ohio State university.

587 MORE GET AID IN COUNTY IN PAST MONTH

Extreme Cold Blamed, Costs Go Up $214; 710 Employed on WPA Projects.

The number of persons on Richland county relief rolls soared to a new high for the year during February, Relief Director J. Verne Finney reported today.

Reflecting the extreme cold weather during the past month, a total of 2,224 persons were given food, clothing and fuel, Finney said. This is 587 persons more than were on relief rolls in January.

Relief costs jumped accordingly, the February expenditures totaling $12,252 as compared with $12,038 the month previous, an increase of $214.

Finney's report showed that a total of $5.455 was spent by the city to care for 1,097 persons while the county relief area, exclusive of Shelby, provided 1,124 individuals with food, clothing and fuel, at a cost of $3,650.

Supplies Cost $1,589.

Administrative costs, including payroll expense, supplies and rental of relief headquarters totaled $904. Non-administrative costs including medical services, surplus commodities and materials for the WPA sewing and housekeeping aid projects were listed at $1,589.

The report showed that the county now has 710 persons employed on WPA projects, an increase of 60 over the number employed on government projects on Feb. 1. A total of 252 persons have been certified and are awaiting assignment to work projects.

During the month nearly 20 tons of surplus commodities were distributed to relief clients. These included flour, apples, rolled oats, oranges, raisins and cornmeal.

It was also reported that 1,647 garments of clothing valued at $1,158 had been made by the WPA sewing project and turned over to the relief headquarters for distribution.

3 NEW CASES

Grand Jury's Session Will Last Through Day.

With three more new cases on the calendar, boosting the number to 21, the Richland county grand jury was not expected to complete its session until late this afternoon.

There may be more than 21 indictments returned however, court attaches said, because two or more charges against some of the defendants will be studied by the jurors.

Among the cases on the jury's schedule was one involving charges of kidnaping and child-stealing against George Beck, Mansfield, accused child molester.

Charles F. Remy, 20 Lexington avenue, was a new member of the grand jury today, replacing Clarence Herrick, Mansfield, who was excused. George Tobias of Mansfield is the jury foreman.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

This Year's Floradoras.

All a Powers model needs to be popular is the face God gave her and the telephone Alexander Graham Bell invented. Having these, she can slay the town and its playboys, become as well known to the headwaiters as Marlene Dietrich, and set new styles as fast as the Duchess of Windsor.

She can wear a sweater and skirt into El Morocco at midnight on Friday and make all the Schiaparelli-sheathed sirens wish they had on two diamond bracelets less; she can powder her face brown, paint her eyelashes green, wear three carrots and an avocado on her head instead of a hat, and do her hair page boy style while all the other belles are trying to look like Shirley Temple—but she will still be gazed at by the cafe-goers with more admiration than horror.

In any roomful of girls you can tell the Powers models because they are the ones who look as if they had just fallen out of bouquets.

Most of them are tall, most of them wear the kind of hats other women will venture to wear who shouldn't, and most of them lunch with men in the places where lunch costs $6.75.

They have put the Broadway chorus girls out of business, socially speaking, for whereas in the old days every man about town had a chorine on the receiving end of his orchids, now everybody has a Powers model, except Burgess Meredith who has 29.

Most Powers models have more beaux than most movie stars, because (a) they are prettier; and (b) they have more time to play.

* * *

If you took all the models who can be seen crossing 47th and Park between 2 and 3 p. m., scrambled them up, and divided the mixture into four, you would probably get a quartette of representative beauties who would look and act like Georgia Carroll, Wyn-Nelle Russell, Helen Bennett and Kay Williams.

They are all beautiful, all style-setters, and all proof that if you are chic you can get by with murder or upswept hair.

Kay Williams is responsible for the vogue of wearing tiny angora sweaters over bathing suits; she did it one morning in Miami because she was cold and somebody snapped her picture, and from then on not a damosel from 17 to 50 would appear on the sands without a fuzzy sweater over her shoulderblades.

Helen Bennett was the first girl to disguise her prettiness with an exotic get-up and make it pay off. . . . When Margie Hart took off her clothes at the Eltinge Theater it was burlesque, but when Wyn-Nelle Russel wore much less at the Monte Carlo it was Art. She was a Powers model, wasn't she?

* * *

Georgia Carroll is the youngest of the four, and according to the models' grapevine, she makes more money than any model in town. She is slender and willowy and pale-skinned, with small sharp features and soft eyes and pale golden hair and a face that is right out of a cameraman's dream.

She lives with her mother and has a slight Texas drawl, a pretty good singing voice, and the usual Powers' model's ambition to go into the movies.

She is as economical as she looks extravagant. Each morning she leaves her house with two dollars in her purse. This is her "allowance" for the day, and it means that if she has a lot of jobs she rides buses and subways, instead of the taxis taken by most of the belles who make less money.

Georgia, in the natural course of being beau'd around the town, hits all the better spots several times a week, but she isn't in the night-owl class and what she really likes is a quiet dinner at Louisa's and a movie. . . . She has one invariable rule: two nights a week she spends at home.

Helen Bennett is the girl whose photographs in Harpers Bazaar and the ulta-smart fashion pages always set you to wondering whether she is Balinese, Samoan, Andalusian, Norwegian, Parisian, or merely terribly chic. (She is a New Yorker). Probably before she became a Powers model she was merely a very pretty girl, but she has metamorphosed into something that looks like as if it might break if you touched it and that ought to be named Tanya Borski instead of Helen Bennett.

She makes up, even away from the cameras, like no one you ever knew. Instead of powder, she puts on a thick layer of pancake powder base, applied with a wet sponge and allowed to dry. Her cheeks are left pale, her mouth and eyelids painted in exotic colors, usually to match her costume jewelry.

She is married to a musician, and because of him she changes her type for six weeks every year. She goes away with him to Maine, lets down her hair, wears slacks and a shirt, and catches fish.

* * *

Wyn-Nelle Russell, known in the Stork club set as "Wendy," circulates as rapidly as any girl in town between midnight and the Kit Kat's closing time, and has run the romance gamut from Pat DeCicco to Burgess Meredith to Nino Martini. . . . When she arrived in New York two years ago she was just another Texas girl whose folks thought she was pretty, and John Powers rejected her because, as she admits, "I was just a peroxide blonde with too much make-up—and not the type." She got a job in the wholesale garment district, got wise to the way women in the Ritz bar looked, and in eight months was one of New York's leading models—and working for Powers.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If your education on the subject of bananas has been neglected, "Torrid Zone" is the place to make amends.

"Torrid Zone" has a locale in a vaguely Central American banana port. The story, says Pat O'Brien who's in the picture, is another rip-roaring "Front Page" with a different background. Pat's feud is with James Cagney, and the girl is Ann Sheridan.

But the picture marks the banana's biggest dramatic break since last year's "Only Angels Have Wings." That picture was more concerned with flying than with fruit, however, so in "Torrid Zone" it may be said that the banana, for the first time, takes the spotlight.

There is more to the banana than meets the eye or taste. If your acquaintance with the yellow fruit is limited to a casual how-do-you-do exchanged with the big bunch hanging at your corner fruit stand, you have much to learn. The banana is a science, Johnie Mari can tell you that.

Johnie is a soft-spoken Spaniard from Barcelona who went into bananas when he was nine years of age. He looks around 45 now, which gives him a long familiarity with the banana. He has been in bananas only for the movies in recent years. When he isn't technical adviser on a banana movie, as now, he works on Spanish-language films.

It's Johnie who has seen to it that Pat's office, headquarters of a banana company, has the proper scientific props. There's a table covered with test tubes, bottles and jars of pickled bananas, whole and in cross-section, and chemicals. There's a big bunch of bananas encased in netting—that's for "observation."

Twenty-five years ago, says Johnie, bananas were taken as they came, pretty much. Root-rot, pests and other damaging factors were accepted as inevitable. Now science fights them, constantly strives to improve the strains, increase production—and college graduates are taken for the jobs.

When you're in the banana know, you never say a "bunch"—always a "stem." Each cluster of bananas on a stem is a "hand," and a good hand should have 14 "fingers." (Has the baby eaten its finger today? It's recommended.)

Johnie told me a great many things I hadn't suspected about bananas, which are fascinating items when you get to know them. Here are a few: one banana tree gives off only one stem of bananas a year. But the tree, cut down after the fruit is taken, starts working right away toward next year's crop.

The banana tree's worst enemies are tropical storms and rats. They can't do anything about the storms, which leave a banana plantation a shambles of broken trees, but there is a bounty on the rats, which attack the roots.

ITALIANS KEEP POLITICS FROM CONVERSATIONS

Taverns and Shops Post Signs to Warn Populace of That Nation's Neutrality.

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of six dispatches on war-time Europe.

By ELEANOR PACKARD
(UP Staff Correspondent)

ROME—In a little cafe where Italians gather in late afternoon on the Via Veneto for a sip of wine there is a sign plastered on the wall that says:

"Here we do not discuss politics or high strategy."

That is the keynote of Italy's non-belligerent status in Europe's wars and it will continue to be the theme of the Fascist nation until Premier Benito Mussolini says otherwise.

The sign in the cafe is a familiar one now to Italians. They see similar signs in all public places, in clubs, in offices and in shops and often there is another phrase on the end: "Here we work."

That, too, is a keynote for Italians as the rest of Europe's big powers are locked in war. Italy is working furiously.

Talking politics is a popular pastime in Italy and it has not been easy to give it up, but with the words of Mussolini that "Fascist peace is armed peace" still fresh in memory, the well-fed and not too pessimistic Italians have carried on as cheerfully and normally as possible. Sometimes it is difficult.

Food Costs Soar.

In six months, living costs have soared 30 per cent, foreign coal has been outlawed for heating purposes and coffee, sugar and gasoline have been rationed.

The nation is experiencing a trade boom unprecedented in recent years, despite inroads on its commerce by the economic warfare of the belligerents. Italy's material losses from torpedoes and mines have been comparatively negligible so far.

The nation has adhered to the policy that Italy would "take no military initiative," laid down to the council of ministers by Mussolini on Sept. 1, the day Germany invaded Poland.

Soaring prices have caused Mussolini to convene the central corporative council to discuss the relation of living costs to wages. Wages have been ordered increased 10 to 15 per cent to meet increased living costs.

Typical price increases on six staple foods follow:

Bread, three per cent; sugar, 12½ per cent; olive oil, six per cent; spaghetti, 12 per cent; coffee 30 per cent; alcoholic drinks, 10 percent. Prices have not been raised on butter, rice and laundry soap.

In mid-February, it was announced that special police detailed to enforce food price regulations and uncover hoarders had investigated 60,000 cases since September. Only sugar and coffee have been rationed, but rationing of meals in restaurants may be started.

The war's effect on Italian defense has been to speed up production in all branches of the armed forces.

Says Men Are Best Judges of Girlish Beauty

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — Women are poor judges of feminine beauty in the opinion of Miss Evelyn Darst, first co-ed operator of a beauty contest at the University of Tennessee.

That's why she picked a group of men students to select the 25 most beautiful co-eds. She thinks the men are the fairest judges.

"Women don't always evaluate the beauty of other women straight," said Miss Darst. "They don't always see the beauty of other women."

As far as Miss Darst is concerned, it's personality that counts anyway, and she added "I don't think there is any girl who can't be beautiful—a girl's beauty is really an inner glow and her ability to make the best of all possibilities."

Air Raid Hostesses Appear.

LONDON — (U.P.) — The United States may have its air hostesses, but Britain has "air-raid hostesses." Their job will be to calm women and children who show signs of hysteria in event of an air raid.

Early Amphibian Footprint Found In Mine's Depths

(By International News Service)

WILKES-BARRIE, Pa.—The footprint of a strange amphibian that wallowed in the mud and vegetation covering Pennsylvania's anthracite region 245,000,000 years ago has been preserved for science.

The discovery was made deep in the East Boston mine, some distance from the town of Luzerne, by Roland T. Bird, paleonthologist for the American Museum of Natural History.

"Amphibians such as left their imprint on the slab I found here," explained Bird, "were the first vertebrates able to leave the water and exist for any time on land."

The strange half-fish, half-mammal creature that tracked its way through the coal fields lived during the carboniferous period when decaying vegetation pressed fold on fold through the ages to become what is known today as the Red Ash vein, a rich deposit of anthracite, according to Bird.

The prettier a girl is the more often she wants to be told about it.

RAM AT SCHOOL

HILLSVILLE, Va. — (AP) — A ram, less gentle but more determined than Mary's little lamb, created a stir at a two-room school near here.

The ram chased a boy all the way to school and then refused to be ejected. The teacher continued the lesson with the pupils perched atop their desks until the ram got its fill of education and wandered away.

KEATING HEADS LUMBERMENS FOR 8TH YEAR

President Re-elected After Policyholders Rename 3 to Board of Directors.

Charles H. Keating, president and general manager of the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company for the past seven years, was re-elected yesterday by the board of directors following the annual meeting of policyholders.

Three directors of the company were re-named by the policyholders for three-year terms. There are P. P. Parker, Findlay; R. H. Campbell, Toledo, and C. P. Hagemeyer, Cincinnati.

They will serve with E. S Nail, Keating, H. S. Black and P. M. Eliot, all of Mansfield, and H. E. Stone, Boston and C. A. Hubbard, Martinsville, Ind.

Nail was re-elected chairman of the board of directors

Other Officers Renamed.

Other officers, all of whom were renamed were C. E. Nail, vice president and assistant general manager; H S. Black and Scott F. Coffin, vice presidents, W. H. G. Kegg, secretary, and D. P. Smith, treasurer.

Re-elected to the executive committee were Keating, Campbell, Parker and Eliot, as substitute.

Keating reported to the policyholders that the company experienced the largest increase in premiums in the history of the company during 1939.

Surplus and voluntary reserve totaled $1,204,855 as of Dec. 31, 1939, an increase of $22,968 over the previous year, he said.

The company, which is entering its 45th year of operation, is licensed in 43 states, the district of Columbia, Dominion of Canada and the provinces of British Columbia, New Brunswick, Ontario and Quebec.

ROBBED AT RAZOR'S EDGE

BOSTON—(U.P.)—Peter Riley and James Fleming told police they were held up at razor edge instead of the usual gunpoint by four Negroes and robbed of $4. The victims said one man asked for a match, two others whipped out razors and a fourth rifled their pockets.

Renamed President

City Makes $5000 Profit On Dollar Salvage Purchase

JACKSON, Tenn.—(AP)—Jackson paid $1 for a street car system in 1938. Now it appears the city deal will turn a $5,000 profit.

Because the owners of the private electric utility serving this area didn't want to be left with the trolley system after selling their other properties to the city and TVA, the street cars, tracks and so on, were thrown in for $1.

When the salvage of the street railway system is completed in the spring," City Engineer J. A. Basell reports, "we shall have realized approximately $15,000 from the original investment of $1. When all costs of salvage and repairs are charged off, there'll be a surplus of approximately $5,000."

Jackson's population in 1930 was 22,172. The city is now served by buses. The trolley system had less than a dozen street cars.

SNOW FIGHTS FIRE

WHITEHILL, Mont.—(AP)—Lack of water didn't stop the volunteer firemen who answered an alarm at the Erik G. Klockare ranch near here. A bunkhouse was blazing. The fire melted great quantities of snow. Firemen poured the resultant water on the nearby ranch house, saving it.

Once Doomed to Firing Squad He Faces Freedom

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(U.P.)—Twelve years ago, Werner Stenbeck stood before a Salt Lake county district judge and heard himself condemned to death before a firing squad for the murder of his common-law wife. As he was about to be sentenced, the court appointed an attorney to represent Stenbeck in any further legal moves.

The attorney, who had accidentally wandered into the courtroom a few minutes before, became interested in Stenbeck's case, appealed it to the state supreme court, obtained a new trial and in the second trial Stenbeck was found guilty of only second degree murder.

Stenbeck was sentenced to 15 years in prison. His behavior in prison has been, according to Warden Owen Nebeker, "beyond reproach." As a result of this model behavior—and Utah's indeterminate sentence law—Stenbeck will be released automatically March 27, just slightly more than half his sentence served but the crime fully expiated. He will be the first convicted murderer in Utah history so released.
